FREE EXHIBITIONS AT NORTH ST. LOUIS FIELD THREE DAYS

Only Very Bad Weather Can Keep Him Out of the Air, Noted Aviator Declares.

Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin, brought to St. Louis by the Post-Dispatch for aeroplane flights next Saturday, Sunday and Monday, announced positively Thursday that he would make flights on all three days, unless prevented by the worst of weather, and that he would fly above the Mississippi River from 6900 north to 3100 south, and return, either Saturday or Sunday afternoon.

"I would not make a positive announcement about it," said the veteran air navigator, "unless I knew I could make the flights. I have looked over the ground, and I am certain that I can fly there. I could have flown yesterday, if my machine had been ready, in spite of the bad weather. It will take very bad weather to keep me from flying Saturday, Sunday and Monday."

All the field flights of the three days, and the start of the river flight, will be at the North St. Louis aviation field east of Bellefontaine Cemetery. All will be free to the public, the only restricted space being that of the flight course, which will be guarded by 300 policemen. A squad of 25 militiamen will guard Baldwin's biplane.

The biplane "Red Devil," in which Capt. Baldwin has made flights almost daily this summer, was hauled Thursday, in sections, from an express office to the hangar, or shed, built on the aviation field to house it. Two mechanicians immediately began the job of setting up the machine.

In the river front flight from the aviation field to the foot of Arsenal street and return, Capt. Baldwin will take the course which he last week selected for Clifford B. Harmon. He intends to strike out from the aviation field southward toward the Merchants' Bridge, and to clear the Merchants', McKinley and Eads bridges at a height of several hundred feet and a speed of 45 miles an hour.

He probably will turn back north when he sees the tall row of chimneys of the Anheuser-Busch Brewery. If he makes a landing at the south end of his flight, it will be on the level sandy plain on the East Side, opposite Arsenal street, and adjoining the Cahokia ferry wharf. From this spot it will be easy to start on the return flight northward.

"The rains thus far," said Capt. Baldwin Thursday, "will be no obstacle. The field was well soaked, but a little ordinary ditching will dry out the track, and the field will be an ideal place for short flights and for starting the river front flight."

The Post-Dispatch and the Auxiliary Citizens' Committee will give Capt. Baldwin cash prizes for successful flights. His expenses and the expenses of his two mechanicians—Jay Safford and Carl Moufield—are being paid by the Post-Dispatch. The ground expenses are being met by the Citizens' Committee, of which Edward Devoy is chairman, and H. W. Peters, head of the sub-committee on finance. Albert Bond Lambert, president of the Aero Club, is head of the Subcommittee on Aviation, and is in charge of the ground arrangements, assisted by Water Commissioner Adams. River patrol arrangements, in charge of Harbor Commisioner Whyte and Federal Supervisor Dunn, are progressing rapidly.

Clifford B. Harmon Thursday sent the Post-Dispatch the following telegram, finally cancelling his engagement to make the river and field flights here:

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.

Post-Dispatch, St. Louis:

My disappointment that I am not to be the first to fly in an aeroplane over the Mississippi is far greater than that of any individual in St. Louis. I know only too well how hospitable your people are, hence my regret.

I make an ascension in my balloon "New York" in the national race at Indianapolis, Sept. 17, at which time I hope to win a place in the international race in St. Louis Oct. 17.

I envy the man who accomplishes with the aeroplane the thing I have set my heart on doing—flying up and down the Mississippi before your wonderful city. Sorry I cannot get there on time.

CLIFFORD B. HARMON.

Two accidents made it necessary for Harmon to abandon his plan of coming to St. Louis to try for prize cups offered by the Post-Dispatch and the Citizens' Committee. His first Farman biplane was put out of service by an accident at the end of his flight across Long Island Sound, his other biplane was wrecked last Saturday on the Boston aviation field, in his first trial there.

Minimum ..... 71 at 5 a. m.

September came in like Niobe. If the remainder of the month merely strikes an average in rain, the record probably will be broken, because in the first week the wetness passed the September average.

Sept. 1 was clear, and there was but a trace of moisture Tuesday. For the other days the precipitation was as follows:

Friday, .03; Saturday, .64; Sunday, 2.8; Monday, .2; Wednesday, 1.14; total, 4.81 inches.

The average rainfall for September is 2.91 inches.

Official forecast: Showers and cooler tonight; Friday, partly cloudy and cooler.

Stage of the river: 13.6 feet; a rise of .5 feet.

Public to Be Kept Informed of Flights By a Series of Signals

A CODE of signals which will keep the public informed Saturday, Sunday and Monday as to Capt. Baldwin's aeroplane flights, arranged for by the Post-Dispatch for those days, will be published in Friday's Post-Dispatch.

The signals will show the people in all parts of the city and East St. Louis each day whether flights are to be made that day, and a special signal will announce the time of the river front flight. In case wind or bad weather makes necessary the abandonment of any day's plans, this will also be shown definitely.

AN accurate diagram of the North St. Louis aviation field and of the course selected for the river flight will appear in Friday's Post-Dispatch.

The aviation field is east of Bellefontaine Cemetery, and is reached directly by the North Broadway line to Morin or Campbell avenue, 6500 north. It also can be reached by walking through O'Fallon Park from the Sarah and Bellefontaine lines, over Bircher avenue from the end of the Taylor line, and over Calvary avenue from the end of the Union line.

HEARST OFFERS TO AID ROOSEVELT IN FIGHT ON BOSSES

Editorial Pledges Support of 150,000 Independents for Governor of New York.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—W. R. Hearst offers to give to Col. Roosevelt moral and material support if the former President will return to New York and give battle to the political bosses in his own State.

A front page editorial in Hearst's morning paper here today calls on the Colonel to return from the West, and promises the support of his "Independent followers" to Roosevelt if he will come back to New York and lead a fight for the people.

"There is no jealousy in our ranks," says Hearst. "We do not care who leads, if only he leads aright. Drive the Republican bosses out of the Republican party and if any one of them deserts to the Democratic party, 50,000 Independents will take his place. If Barnes, Woodruff, Aldridge, all three of them desert to the democracy, 150,000 Independents will take their places. We cast that many votes at the last election, Mr. Roosevelt. We can cast them again and more."

That this was taken to mean the Hearst followers would back Roosevelt in the coming fight in New York State, provided he would become an active candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and, if defeated at the convention, as now seems likely, would run independently.

Politicians do not believe there is a chance of the former bitter enemies getting together, but the prospect has given them pause, as there are many interesting possibilities in such an alignment.

HUSBAND RECOMMENDS KISSES AS CURE FOR NERVOUSNESS

Sued for Divorce, He Relates How Salutes Always Restored His Wife.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Kissing as a healing power and a balm for nervousness is declared efficacious by James L. Carrico, a baker, in answer to the petition of his wife for a divorce. Mrs. Carrico alleged in her petition that while she was sick her husband was continually under the influence of liquor and did not minister proper treatment to her, but he asserts in his answer, filed today, "that when defendant put his arms about plaintiff and kissed her, her nervousness and other ailments disappeared."

AMMONIA IN DOG'S EYE IS CAUSE OF CYCLIST'S ARREST

Arthur N. Sager's Fox Terrier May Be Blinded by Action of C. G. Van Horn.

Mrs. Arthur N. Sager's pet fox terrier is in a dark room, with bandaged eyes and the prospect of blindness as a result of his encounter with a motorcyclist armed with an ammonia-filled syringe. Charles G. Van Horn of 808 North Jefferson avenue, the cyclist, was arrested on a warrant sworn to Wednesday by the former Circuit Attorney, charging mistreating an animal.

The fox terrier is 7 years old, which is mature for that breed, but he is still affectionately known as "Pup" by his mistress. He has a way of chasing motorcyclists and barking at them, and Van Horn apparently determined to put an end to it. Tuesday evening, after he had passed the house several times, the terrier ran forth, and Van Horn squirted concentrated ammonia into its eyes.

Mrs. Sager, who was sitting on her front porch and saw the incident, was indignant. She told her husband, and he set out to find out who the motorcyclist was.

Inquiry showed that the machine was two-seated. On learning this, Sager encountered Special Officers Brennan and Matlock, who used to walk the beat including the Sager home at 4920A McPherson avenue, and who had come to be fast friends with "Pup." They volunteered their services and the next day reported that they had learned that the man on the two-seated motorcycle was Van Horn. A Police Court summons and his arrest followed.

Dr. F. W. Shaffer, a veterinary specialist, who is treating the dog, said he believed permanent blindness would be prevented, but that it would not recover its sight for at least ten days.

Van Horn says the dog bit him on the leg, and that he acted in self-defense. Dogs all over St. Louis annoy cyclists, he said, and in some cases have caused them to break their legs in falls, after being bitten.

Boy Killed by a Baseball.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Failure to catch a baseball thrown swiftly by his brother in practice resulted in the death of Edward W. Hoge, aged 12 years.

The ball struck him in the right temple.

Mayor Gaynor Endorsed for Governor.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Mayor Gayner was indorsed for governor by the Democrats of Saratoga County in convention here.

PRIEST LED JONES TO BUY TELEPHONE STOCK, IS EVIDENCE

Trust Company President Testifies in East of Former Jurist's $10,000 Fee.

ST. LOUIS LOSSES BIG

Local Investors Put in $560,000, Believing New York Franchise Good.

Acting on an opinion given by former Judge Henry S. Priest, Breckinridge Jones, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., invested $120,000 in the United States Independent Telephone Co., and took an active part in the sale of $560,000 of its bonds in St. Louis, according to his testimony in Rochester, N. Y.

Among the heaviest losers in St. Louis by the collapse of the telephone company were Jones, Adolphus Busch, William D. Orthwein and the late William F. Nolker.

The opinion rendered by Priest was that the company's New York telephone franchise was valid. For this opinion Jones testified at Rochester, Priest received $10,000 from the telephone company. The franchise proved valueless.

Brought on Bench Warrant.

An Associated Press dispatch from Rochester Thursday contained details of Jones' testimony. His presence as a witness was obtained by a bench warrant issued by Justice Benton, and he was compelled to go to Rochester from the home of his fiancee, Mrs. Sallie Brant Colwell, at Casenovia, N. Y.

When Jones took the stand Wednesday afternoon he was asked whether it was at his suggestion that the United States Independent Telephone Co. had been organized. He described his entrance into the company as follows:

Thomas W. Finucane had made a trip to St. Louis in 1905 on business connected with the Stromberg-Carlson Co., and while there had discussed with Jones the affairs of the company. It was then that Jones became interested in a tentative project which later became the United company, to the extent of investing $25,000.

"Did you suggest the organization of the company?" he was asked.

"I don't think that it was on my initiative that it was organized."

"Did you sign a syndicate agreement when you put in the $25,000?"

"Yes, sir. But I haven't a copy of that agreement now."

Memory Faulty on Agreement.

He could not remember what the provisions of the agreement were. Neither could he remember how many members of the syndicate there were.

"Did you understand that you were to get the profits from the syndicate operations in money or stock?"

"I don't remember."

"Did the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. sell the bonds of the U. S. I. T. Co. in St. Louis and vicinity?"

"Subscriptions were received in the office of the company, and Mr. Fenn (an agent of the company appointed by Finucane) sold them."

"How many bonds did you sell?"

"Five hundred and sixty thousand dollars' worth."

"How much were you paid?"

"Five per cent."

Jones denied that, at a meeting of the company which he attended here in November, 1905, he ascertained that the company had no working capital.

Counsel tried to get Jones to say that he had an arrangement with Finucane whereby the money which Jones had put into the company was to be returned to him, but objections were sustained by the Court.

Jones said that he thought Henry S.

ROBBERY WITNESS SEES JULIEN; SAYS HE'S NOT THE MAN

Electrician Believes Flagman's Slayer Was Former Railroad Employe.

COOL AS A VETERAN

Thomas Griffin Declares Holdup Man Showed Familiarity With Train.

NEW DESCRIPTION OF ROBBER FURNISHED BY EYE-WITNESS

ELECTRICIAN Griffin's new description of robber on which police are working.

More than 6 feet tall.
Unusually broad shoulders.
Weight 150 to 160 pounds.
Coal-black eyes, hair and eyebrows, the last bushy and wide-set.
Nose prominent.
Wore unpressed blue serge suit, sack coat and trousers tight-fitting.
Black derby or black soft hat.

A veteran criminal familiar with railroading, and not Albert Julien, the stereotyper, murdered Flagman James M. Wine of the Burlington's Overland Express, Tuesday night, and robbed the passengers in the rear Pullman car, according to Thomas Griffin, electrician of the train, who was compelled to pass his hat by the robber and collect the plunder.

Recalled from his run at Pawnee, Neb., Griffin arrived in St. Louis Thursday morning with other members of the crew to attend an inquest into Wine's death. He was confronted with Julien in Capt. Schwartz' office at 9:30 a. m. and at once shook his head confidently.

"No, no!" he exclaimed positively, "this is not the man."

Julien, at the direction of Capt. Schwartz, walked, sat, crouched, covered his mouth and nose with a handkerchief and spoke. At each demonstration, Griffin shook his head vigorously.

"The only resemblance is in height," said he. "Both are tall men, more than six feet.

Great Difference In Eyes.

"Julien hasn't the robber's eyes. I'd know them among a thousand pairs. They were jet black, keen and commanding, and pierced through me. He had wide-set, bushy black eyebrows, and his eyes gleamed from deep beneath them."

Julien's eyes are a wan blue, watery and uncertain in expression. His eyebrows are thin and sandy, and almost meet over the nose.

"The murder's shoulders were unusually broad and erect," continued the electrician, "not narrow and stooping like Julien's. The robber's hair was coal black, but this man has light hair. The former's voice was cleand sonorous; but Julien's is husky, as if from a cold."

Showed Knowledge of Railroading.

"The thief might have been formerly a trainman," said Griffin, "from the knowledge he showed of railroading. By signaling the engineer with the compressed air valve on the rear platform he brought the train to a stop so he could escape. He knew that the lights in the Pullman car were operated by separate switches, for when I asked him whether I should turn off the front

U. S. BATTLESHIP IS AGROUND, BURNING; 7 KILLED; 100 HURT

Fire Breaks Out on North Dakota and One Report Is That 75 Sailors Were Overcome.

By Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 8.—A special dispatch to the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch from Old Point Comfort, at 3:15, says seven men have been killed and one hundred injured in the explosion on the North Dakota.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Three men were killed and 11 injured in a fire on the Battleship North Dakota, off Norfolk, Va., acording to unofficial dispatches received at the Navy Department. The dispatches came from Newport News, and carried information received by wireless at the naval station there.

According to the dispatches, fire broke out in the 20,000-ton battleship, either in the oil tanks or the coal bunkers, and smoke was seen arising. The hospital ship, which was dispatched to her aid, now is on her way back to her anchorage.

The fragmentary dispatches first received indicated that the North Dakota had gone ashore and was burning. One of the early bulletins was to the effect that 75 men had been overcome by smoke and gas. The nature of the fire and the extent of the damage will not be known until the hospital ship returns.

The North Dakota is the only ship of the North Atlantic fleet not in Hampton Roads. The accident, according to the wireless occured while the ship was lying off Ocean City near Norfolk in lower Chesapeake Bay.

Once Most Powerful Afloat.

The North Dakota was launched at Quincy, Mass., Nov. 10, 1908, and was at the time the most powerful battleship afloat. She was bigger, faster and more formidable than any of the British Dreadnaughts, along whose lines she was built.

The North Dakota is equipped with turbine engines, designed to give her a speed of 21 knots. She carries ten 12-inch guns, as compared to four on other vessels. All of these guns can be fired broadside. This means that her guns could throw projectiles weighing more than one hundred thousand pounds at one instant, a volley which, if effective, would almost lift an ordinary battleship out of the water.

The North Dakota cost the Government $10,000,000.

LAWYERS WHO HAD EWALD TAX REDUCED SUE FOR $10,000 FEE

R. E. and E. R. Rombauer File Bill Against Executor of Estate for Legal Work.

In a suit filed Thursday by Roderick E. and Edgar R. Rombauer against the Columbia Trust Co. of Louisville, Ky., executor of the estate of Louis Philip Ewald, $10,000 is asked for legal services, which resulted in reducing the amount of the personal assessment of the Ewald estate from $1,000,000 to less than $1000.

Ewald, a wealthy iron manufacturer, resided in Louisville and St. Louis. Besides obtaining a reduction in the assessment, they allege they brought an action to test the validity of the will and looked after litigation affecting the title of the Ewald lot in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Expenses amounting to $73 are also sued for.

The petition charges the Columbia Trust Co. refused to pay for the services.

"ACCIDENTALLY" ELOPES; LOSES $75 AND FIANCE

Girl Just Happened to Meet Another Man and She Wouldn't Resist Him.

HE GOES WITH MONEY

Now Man She Really Loves Is Angry and Her Voile Skirt Is Lost.

Miss Frances Cunningham, being plump and brunette, is not built for the part, but she regards herself, nevertheless, as a near Queen of Tragedy. She is contemplating taking the veil, she told a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday.

Intercepted in an elopement with a man she did not and does not love, while under what she describes as hypnotic influence, Miss Cunningham has lost the man she really, truly loves and to whom she was engaged to be married. Also she has lost $75, she says, along with one white satin waist and the skirt to her maroon voile suit.

Miss Cunningham has asked the police to help her recover the money and the clothes, but who is to help her recover her fiance?

Miss Cunningham is 18 years old, and lives at 3007 Vine Grove avenue. She has more than one admirer, and—but let her tell the story.

"I never did care for John Remley," said Miss Cunningham, shaking her brown head by way of emphasis, "but he persisted in coming to see me. I used to be cashier in one of his brother's markets and got to know him in that way.

Arranged a Courting Schedule.

"Now, there is another man I do care for and we were engaged to be married this fall. I'm not going to tell his name. Mr. Remley used to come out to see me of an evening when this man was calling, and they would have an endurance contest. Mr. Remley usually won and he would stay until father told him to go. Finally we arranged the schedule this way: Mr. Remley would call Sunday afternoon and my fiance Sunday evening, Mr. Remley Monday evening and the other man Tuesday evening, Mr. Remley Wednesday evening and the other man Thursday and Friday evenings. There was another man came Saturday evenings.

"As I say, I never cared for Mr. Remley, but when I tried to 'shake' him I found it impossible.

"He exercised an influence over me which I don't understand. He seemed able to compel me to do things against my will. It must have been hypnotism.

"Last Monday I started to take my maroon skirt and satin waist in a satchel to the cleaners. I didn't notice until after I got home that the handbag I carried contained $75, which was my savings.'

Fiance Carries Pistol.

"At Vandeventer avenue and Olive street I happened to meet Mr. Remley. He insisted that we should go to the city hall and get a marriage license. I didn't want to, but I could not resist that strange influence. The city hall was closed because it was Labor day, so we went to Belleville. Same thing there. Then we went to Granite City. Same thing there. Then Mr. Remley called up mamma and told her we were married. He had me come to the phone and tell her the same thing, although of course were were not married and I didn't want to do it, but I just couldn't help it.

"Mamma was as mad as she could be and sent papa to meet us in East St. Louis. She telephoned my fiance and he went to the Union Station with a big revolver, expecting us to return by train. Mamma went along with him.

"Mr. Remley bought two tickets for Chicago at the Relay Station in East St. Louis, and checked my satchel, containing my clothes, but before the train came papa arrived. He took us home and we all sat down in the dining room to talk it over.

"Mamma lost her temper and started at Mr. Remley, and he ran out of the door. Then I remembered that he had my $75, but it was too late. After two days had passed and I had heard nothing from him, I telephoned the police about it.

"My engagement has been postponed indefinitely. I think I will enter a convent. I am the unluckiest girl in the world."

Remley formerly lived at 4108 Evans avenue. There is a police order for his arrest.

HOMEMADE AEROPLANE WOULD NOT FLY; AVIATOR IS HURT

He Made It Out of Umbrella Wires and Burlap—Falls 30 Feet.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 8.—Hans Christiansen, a farmhand of Newmarket, N. J., is under the care of physicians there after an attempt to make a flight in a crude aeroplane. Christiansen's flying machine was built for the most part out of umbrella ribs and burlap. He had no engine, but planned to try out his plane by "gliding" in it from the roof of a barn.

The material was too frail to sustain his weight and he dropped like lead, 30 feet.

WORLD WHIRLS IN PAGAN TIDAL WAVE, PRIEST DECLARES

Calls Present Day Life a Plague of Frivolity, Folly and Riot.

By Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—"The Eucharistic Life the Antidote for Modern Life" was the subject of an address delivered today by the Rev. Father Bernard Vaughn of England before the Eucharistic Congress here, in which the speaker painted a vivid picture of modern conditions as he saw them and pointed to the church as the refuge from the direful consequences he foresaw resulting from what he described a "tidal wave of Paganism" now sweeping over the world.

"We are living," said Father Vaughn, "in a day of headlines, snapshots, taxicabs and music halls; in a day when the scramble for the prizes of life has become a mad passion. It is a day of fever, fret and fume, when competition for farthen toys is so keen, and the margin of profit in commerce has become so fine that the one cry beating through the air is 'hurry up.' No one seems to have time for a pause till, worn out in the pursuit of gew-gaws and vanities, a rest cure becomes imperative, the clock is stopped and all action, mental and physical, must be proscribed as prohibitive for an eighth part of a year.

High Ideals Dying Out.

"We are living in a day when the high ideals of old are fast yielding to the pressure of creature comforts, when principle is being exchanged for expediency, in a day when self-sacrificing Catholicism is being bartered for self-centered materialism, when the Christian sense of sin is being regarded as a by-gone superstition; in a day when it matters not what you believe, but only what to do, and when you may do what you like, provided you are not found out; in a day when the relations between the sexes takes one back to pagan times, while the garbage on which men and women feed is as foul and loathsome as the stuff over which they gloat and chatter; in a day when marriage has become so debased and defiled that not even the pledged truth can make it long and endurable without change of prospective partners in a life of legalized vice; in a day when there is no empty place but in the cradle, no room in which to move but in the churches. Well may a leading Parisian physician sum up the situation, exclaiming, '"C'est une pouriture.'

Gives a Vivid Illustration.

"Observe that the cleavage today, as in no previous time since the dawn of Christianity, is between God and Mammon; or shall I say, in language more definite still, between Catholicism and agnosticism, if not evolutionary materialism itself?

"For confirmation of my strong assertions, read the story of present-day life, as it is reflected in society, as it is mirrored forth on the stage, as it is shown up in the law courts, as it is writ large on our book stalls, or if you will, as it is published in society journals, in the monthly magazine, in the weekly pictorial and in the daily press.

Praise the Irish.

"In conclusion, let me remind you how it has come to pass that so responsive, intelligent, quick-witted and brilliant a people as the Irish have never been caught and captured, as so many were, by the glare of pseudo-theology or the glamour of false philosophies. Yes, let me tell you why it is that the Celtic race, naturally so easily won, has never welcomed to its schools or showed even cold shelter to Jansenism, or Kantianism, or Martianism, or Nietzscheism, nay, let me further tell you why it is that no form of modernism or mundaneism has ever succeeded in finding a foothold in Erin's soil. The reason for this is not far to seek. If Ireland today is the most thoroughly Catholic land throughout the civilized world, and if Dublin of all the capitals in Christendom is the most intensely Catholic, the secret of this glorious privilege is easy to reveal.

"Ireland is what she is today because her sons and daughters say their prayers and go to the Sacraments. Let us go forth, resolved to do likewise, and we, too, like them, shall remain unspotted by modernity, 'unspotted from the world.'"

ROOSEVELT WILL NOT GO TO DINNER IF LORIMER DOES

Tells Chicago Clubmen to Inform Illinois Senator of Decision.

HE O K'S UNCLE JOE

Draws Line on Lawmaker Whose Election Methods Are Under Fire.

By Associated Press.

FREEPORT, Ill., Sept. 8.—Col. Roosevelt refused flatly today to attend the banquet to be given tonight by the Hamilton Club in Chicago unless Senator Lorimer were excluded. He demanded that a telegram to that effect be sent to the Senator.

A committee of 16 members of the Hamilton Club, headed by ex-Judge John H. Batten, came to Freeport from Chicago in a special car today and met Col. Roosevelt, who is here to attend the county fair. They came to make arrangements for the dinner tonight. The committee met Col. Roosevelt at the Fair Grounds and the Colonel asked who was to attend the dinner.

"Is Speaker Cannon to be there?" he asked.

"Yes," Mr. Batten replied, "he accepted the invitation."

"How about Senator Lorimer?" he asked.

"Senator Lorimer is a member of the club," he was told. "He has accepted an invitation to the dinner."

"Then I must decline to go," said the Colonel.

Col. Roosevelt would feel the same about the presence of Senator Lorimer as if members of the Illinois Legislature involved in the graft investigation should be present at the dinner. The members of the committee told the Colonel they would go back to Chicago and inform Senator Lorimer of his views.

"No," Col. Roosevelt replied, "send him a telegram telling him that I will not attend the dinner tonight if he is there."

Priest, his personal counsel, was the foremost lawyer of St. Louis. He said it was on Priest's report on the various franchises of the company that he had gone into it.

He was then questioned again about his investments in the company. Adolphus Busch of St. Louis had accompanied him here on the November trip, but Jones declined to say whether Busch was interested in the company.

Jones had parried all the efforts of counsel up to that time as to his personal investments. When questioned he said: "I subscribed for a large amount, but in the light of later developments I do not care to say how much unless it is very material."

Total Investment $120,000.

Justice Benton ruled that it was material, and the witness then said that he had taken $150,000 in all. For the $150,000 par value he had paid $120,000.

He denied any knowledge of the reported deal between "Fingy" Conors, Democratic National Committeeman, of Buffalo, and Charley Murphy of Tammany Hall, New York, whereby there was to be legislation passed which would allow the company to compete with the Bell Company in New York City.

Jones took $250,000 of the proceeds from the sale of bonds, he said, to purchase stock in the Indianapolis Telephone Co.

According to allegations in former suits growing out of the company's failure, its principal asset was a burglar alarm franchise which, it was supposed, gave its holders the right to run telephone wires through the streets of New York, and made it possible for them to enter into competition with the Bell company there. Several lawyers, including Priest, held that the franchise conferred this right.

Tammany Hall was said to have been enlisted in support of the company's plans, but when Tammany fell out with Mayor McClellan, the plans went wrong and the franchise later was declared to be of no value for telephone business.

The bonds were sold at par, with a stock bonus of 40 per cent, when the company was first floated. Many small investors lost everything they had.

Train Robber Suspect Is Exonerated; Offers Alibi

lights, he answered: 'No, only the rear ones.'"

Prior to Griffin's exoneration of him, Julien had been partly extricated from the snare of circumstantial evidence which had led to his arrest by his establishment of what the police were almost convinced was a perfect alibi. James Lyons, a bartender at 2100 Clark avenue, supplied the information that Julien and his companion, Emil Freund, were at his saloon at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday, less than half an hour after the train left the Union Station.

It would have been almost a physical impossibility, the police said, for the robber to have made the trip in the interval from Biddle street and the Levee to Twenty-first and Clark avenue.

Saw Wine on Platform.

Griffin's story of the hold-up differs materially from that attributed to him Wednesday in news telegrams from Hannibal, Mo. He was not, he says, an eyewitness of Wine's murder.

"A few minutes after we drew out of the Union Station," he related, "I went to the rear of the train to see if the tail lights were burning. I saw Wine standing with his back to the coach and his foot raised on the air brake.

"He seemed to be alone on the platform. This was at the Eighteenth street viaduct, for I looked up and saw the signal lights on the bridge.

"I started for the front of the coach and passed J. J. Cassimerie, negro porter on the car. A second later, I heard a shot on the rear platform. Cassimerie started toward the door, when it burst open and the robber, with leveled revolver, entered. His hands were steady and his eyes, above a mask covering his mouth and part of his nose, were cold-steel.

"He sent a second bullet at the heels of the negro, who fled past me into a closet in the front of the car. I was about to follow him when the hold-up man threw the revolver upon me and commanded: 'Stop.'

"He put the muzzle of the revolver in the small of my back and compelled me to rob the passengers for him. I was so frightened I took one man's watch from his pocket, but the thief said brusquely: 'No watches!'

"Mrs. James C. Shafer of St. Louis was in her berth. After I had taken the purse the thief ordered her to put out her hands. They bore several plain gold rings. 'I don't want any of them,' he said.

"He made me march to the rear of the car and ordered me to turn out the lights. 'The front ones, too?' I asked. 'No,' replied he. Then he stepped out on the rear platform.

"I ran forward and told Conductor Brady what had happened. While he was gathering the crew we heard the compressed air whistle a signal to stop. This was between Carr and Biddle streets. When we reached the rear vestibule the thief had disappeared. We found no sign of the flagman and concluded he had been murdered and thrown overboard."

Notwithstanding Griffin's assertion of Julien's innocence, Edward Alexander, night car inspector, testified at the inques Thursday before Coroner Fath that Julien was standing in the rear vestibule of the Overland Express when it left the Union Station Tuesday night.

George Bressmer, a saloon keeper, 2021 Clark avenue, testified that Julien was in his place from 9:45 until about 10 p. m. Tuesday, and Lyons changed his former statement that Julien and friend were at his saloon at 9:30 p. m., and made the time 10 p. m.

JULIEN RELATES HIS EXPERIENCES

Prisoner Details His Movements, Asserting He Was in Saloon Most of Time.

Julien told the following story to a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday concerning his movements Tuesday night covering the time the train robbery took place:

"We arrived at Bressmer's saloon, 2021 Clark avenue, about 6 p. m. Tuesday. We stayed there drinking until about 8 p. m. Then we went to Union Station and found that a C. & A. train had pulled out for Chicago a few minutes before. We stayed in the railroad yards about 30 minutes, most of the time sitting on a truck on a platform.

"About 8:30 p. m. we went back to Bressmer's saloon and had several more drinks. About 9 p. m. we returned to Union Station and inquired for a train to Chicago. We were told that the next train to Chicago would go at 11:20 p. m. We went back to Bressmer's saloon, arriving there about 9:20 p. m.

"Freund said he was sleepy, and sat in a chair. He told me he was going to sleep and asked me to wake him at 11 o'clock. I stayed about the saloon, and at 11:25 p. m. I woke Freund, and had a hard time doing it, he was so sound asleep.

"Freund went towards the rear of the saloon, and I waited for him to come back. When he failed to return, I looked for him, and then called Bressmer. We both searched for Freund and called him for five minutes. We failed to find him.

Climbs on Wabash Tender.

"I thought Freund had deserted me, and I went to the railroad yards at Union Station to catch the train. At about 11:15 p. m. I got on the coal tender of a Wabash engine attached to a train. I thought that was the train I wanted to Chicago. I lay on the coal for about fifteen minutes, and it began to rain. I stayed there until I got good and wet.

"At about 11:30 p. m. I went back to Bressmer's saloon. I told the bartender that I had no place to sleep, was broke, and could not find a box car to sleep in. Bressmer said I could sleep in the woodshed at the rear of the saloon.

"Wednesday morning, still thinking Freund had deserted me, I went to Market street to try to get a job somewhere near Chicago, so that I could be shipped out free with a gang. I saw a sign at a labor agency saying that a free shipment would be made to work at Bloomington, Ill. That was what I wanted, and applied for the job. I did not have $1, the fee required, and the clerk told me he could not ship me out. He told me to wait, though, and said if the shipment was not filled he might be able to fix me up.

ROOSEVELT IGNORED SUGAR TRUST PLOT, G. H. EARLE WRITES

Charges Executive Hid Behind Decision He Now Criticizes to Avoid Prosecuting Combine.

BY GEORGE H. EARLE.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.

THE New York World's editorial, "Time for Mr. Earle to Speak," but voices a mandate of such increasing force and frequency as to have, I fear, become imperative, especially in view of the magnificent assurance that has led Mr. Roosevelt actually to use the delinquencies of his own administration to discredit the great tribunal that must ever be the best safeguard of our liberty, as well as the surest check upon his own dangerous and crude outgivings.

It is known that I but entered upon my duties as receiver of the ruined refinery at the imperative command of a court of justice, that in all that I did I but carried out its behest. It should be known that I voted for Mr. Roosevelt, rejoicing in any success that honored our common alma mater; that I felt that he seriously desired to defend the right, and though, perhaps, with too much bitterness, was always more than anxious to punish wrong-doing—especially if, to their evil doing, they added the great wealth that should lessen temptation.

That I speak, therefore, is solely because I am forced to, in justice, in view of his own intemperate attacks upon the Supreme Court, and my own uncanny experience with him in relation to the subject matter of those attacks. For that experience has let me know, not merely how intemperate and injurious, how unjustified and unwarranted that attack, but that he himself, Theodore Roosevelt, is more largely responsible for the continuance of the evil of which he complains, and from which the people so largely suffer, than any other mna in these United States.

Leaving motive purpose out of the question, striving to deal with but probable facts alone, basing the proof chiefly either on assertions or records submitted by Mr. Roosevelt himself, I charge and shall submit the proofs that establish:

That the very offenses that Mr. Roosevelt so hotly lays against the Supreme Court are his own.

That if the Knight case has any present importance, it is, on his own showing, chiefly due to his own neglect of duty.

That even his own administration, in a case earnestly called to his attention, not merely did not attack the Knight case, but actually sheltered itself from a plain and imperative performance of duty to the American people; not again merely taking advantage of and using that case, but by extending it most dangerously and giving it an application that the Supreme Court has always and repeatedly repudiated, that was totally unwarranted either in law or reason, and, finally,

That whatever his purposes, he has so conducted himself as to be of the greatest advantage to the very "predatory trusts" that he so wildly denounces, while they in turn, have reciprocated by being a chief and continuing cause of whatever influence still remains to him.

That whatever his or their intent or purpose, in the result be and they have been not only the chief but the sole beneficiaries of his patent neglects of duty, even if, indeed, the Knight case were wrong. And this I feel reluctantly, and only because I have been convinced by actual personal experience with him and out of his own mouth and admissions.

I repeat, this shall I attempt to demonstrate by matter that cannot be disputed, matter either of public record or that emanates from himself, and when that be done, need we be anxious about or fear the final results?

In my first article I shall try to explain, as I feel it imperative that I should, what the Knight case really decided; that the Supreme Court is not justly subject to such violent attack so ruthlessly hurled at it; that while the results so bitterly complained of may be in large measure true, they, upon his own showing, most largely lay in Mr. Roosevelt's own door, not at that of the august tribunal that has preserved and long will preserve our liberties.

In the second I shall attempt to demonstrate that notwithstanding Mr. Roosevelt's denunciation of the Knight case, his administration not merely used and depended upon, but widely extended it when that suited its purpose.

Holds Roosevelt Responsible.

And in the third I shall explain why it should be believed that Mr. Roosevelt, more than anyone, is both responsible for and benefiting by the evils resulting from an unnecessary continuance of monopolies through both his terms.

If, speaking practically, not morally, and Mr. Roosevelt has taken pains to point out that he, like Mr. Harriman, was "a practical man," the country can say to him with justice: "Thou, not the Supreme Court, art the guilty man." I think we may still all rest at ease so far, at least, as is concerned the fear that they may be able to purge the Supreme Court of its present independent and able judges or upset or change the Constitution. Indeed, confidence in the wisdom of the American people must result from any consideration of the good sense with which they have always protected their institutions in the final tests—and recent tests at that. For, though they may not at times "have loved Caesar less," they have never failed "to love American liberty more," and with it the great and unique tribunal that most assures its continuance.

Facts in Roosevelt's Refusal to Prosecute Sugar Trust Are Told

GEORGE H. EARLE of Philadelphia, receiver of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Co., which was wrecked through a conspiracy of the Sugar Trust, at last has consented to make public the facts which he communicated to Roosevelt in the fall of 1906 concerning the plot, as well as evidence of sugar-weighing frauds and on which no Federal action was taken, in spite of the fact that criminal prosecution was asked.

The Knight case, which Roosevelt now condemns as a product of the "fossilized minds" of the justices of the United States Supreme Court, was raised by him and his Attorney-General, Bonaparte, as an insurmountable bar to prosecution.

Yet later, without the Roosevelt administration's assistance, Earle submitted the evidence which Roosevelt would not look at, to the Federal District Court, in a civil suit under the Sherman act and the trust confessed its guilt by settling for between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 damages. Furthermore, using the same facts, Attorney-General Wickersham has procured the indictment of officers of the Sugar Trust, after Roosevelt went out of office. Owing to the delay, some of them were able to plead the statute of limitations, but their fate still is in the hands of the courts.

Responding to the New York World's editorial appeal last Monday and to its repeated requests to him personally to turn the full light on the Sugar Trust jugglery, Mr. Earle has prepared a series of articles for the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

FINED $25 FOR LETTING CHILDREN PERFORM AT SHOW

Moving Picture Manager Gave Them Prizes on Amateur Night.

TAKES AN APPEAL

Brought to Court on the Complaint of Factory Inspector Williams.

Lou Wagner, proprietor of a tent moving picture show at 4124 Easton avenue, was fined $25 by Judge Taylor Thursday in the Court of Criminal Correction for giving prizes to amateur performers. It was the first case to be prosecuted under the law against child labor.

Factory Inspector Williams was the chief witness against Wagner. He said he went to the show the night of Aug. 2, and heard Wagner announce that three prizes would be paid to amateurs, one of $4, one of $2, and one of $1. He described a balancing act by a 16-year-old boy, and said that after that Mary Cassidy and Lillian Schaefer, each of whom seemed about 10 years old, sang. Mary got the third prize and Lillian the second.

Applause Brings Prize.

The decision was reached through testing the applause of the audience, Williams explained. He said Wagner held the prize over each contestant's head and listened to the handclapping, giving the money in turn to that child which won the loudest applause.

William K. Harvey, attorney for Wagner, emphasized on cross-examination of Williams that the prizes were not strictly pay, and that the children competed for them. He put Mrs. Anna Schaefer of 4609A Evans avenue on the stand. She is Lillian's mother. She said she took Lillian to the show to compete without any invitation from Wagner, having seen his advertisement of "amateur night," and that there was no contract between them. None of the children testified.

Harvey contended, in a demurrer to the testimony, that it had been shown that Wagner did not employ the children, but that they appeared voluntarily, and that there was nothing to show that the money they received was in the nature of wages.

Contract Was Implied.

In overruling the demurrer, Judge Taylor said a contract was implied by the conditions under which the prizes were awarded, and that he interpreted the law to mean that children should be kept out of that atmosphere.

Wagner filed an appeal bond.

Judge Taylor's decision encouraged Williams and Chief Probation Officer Baldwin, who have united in a crusade against the custom of performances by children at moving picture shows on "amateur nights." They say there will be further prosecutions.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CHILD IN RUNAWAY MOTOR BOAT IS CHASED AND SAVED BY TUG

Boy Starts Engine and Craft Speeds Over Lake Michigan Carrying Him Alone.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Little John Clark Jr., 4-year-old son of John Clark Sr. of 2427 West Fifteenth place, is probably the youngest navigator of the Great Lakes. This honor was bestowed on him yesterday afternoon after a hair-breadth escape on Lake Michigan.

The youngster, in company with his uncle, William Canavan, journeyed out to the Government pier in a small motor boat to fish. Just as his uncle climbed to the pier the child started the motor and before Canavan could think of a plan to stop the moving boat, it was going northeast at full speed, with the child aboard.

Meanwhile, midway between the pier and the shore, a tug was bearing down on the motor boat and its young navigator. H. G. Holly, who was in the wheelhouse of the tug, gave a cry of warning as he saw only a child aboard the launch. By quick maneuvering the captain whirled to the stern of the motor boat and after a short chase rescued the lad.

TWO GIRLS CHANGE NAMES AND ENTER VISITATION CLOISTER

Miss Nancy Naunheim, Harry B. Hawes' Cousin, and Miss Deffry Become Nuns.

Miss Nancy Naunheim and Miss Genevieve Deffry laid aside these names for the names respectively of Sister Mary Aloysius and Sister Mary Elizabeth, when they exchanged their white robes for the black garb of Visitation nuns. The order they entered is cloistered and they will not again leave the Cabanne avenue convent.

Sister Mary Aloysius is a daughter of Mrs. Sue Hawes Naunheim of the Lucerne Hotel and a cousin of Harry B. Hawes. She was born in Owensboro, Ky., and was a favorite socially there until she left the town in 1903 to come with her mother to St. Louis. She is a graduate of the Visitation Convent and of the Teachers' College on Theresa avenue.

Sister Mary Elizabeth is an orphan and was born in Ste. Genevieve, Mo. She is a niece of the Rev. L. X. Du Four of Tampico, Ill., who was celebrant of one of the three masses sung at the exercises Wednesday, when the young women took the habit.

CARDINAL VANNUTELLI FAINTS AT A BRILLIANT RECEPTION

Pope's Representative at the Eucharistic Congress Soon Recovers Himself.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—Cardinal Vannutelli, the aged representative of Pius X, at the Eucharistic Congress, fainted tonight in the midst of a brilliant reception given in his honor by the Canadian Government.

There were 4000 persons in the great drawing room of the Windsor Hotel when Sir Charles Murphy, the Secretary of State caused the announcement to be made that the prelate was unable to continue the reception. Half an hour later, however, the Cardinal said that he was quite himself again and wished to return to the drawing room. But Dr. Guerin, Mayor of the city, advised him to abandon the reception and he was taken to the Episcopal palace. Several physicians offered their services but to all the prelate said:

"I am just tired, that is all. You wouldn't have any young man like me be frightened in the presence of my colleague, Cardinal Logue."

MOTHER SEARCHES FOR HER SON

John Kubitz Has Been Away From Home Six Years.

Mrs. Mary Kubitz of 4532 San Francisco avenue and her daughter, Mrs. May Scofield, have been searching St. Louis and nearby towns for several weeks in hope of locating John Kubitz, a son and brother, who left home six years ago.

Kubitz left home with his father when but 13 years old. He was a former St. Louis newsboy. Several times the mother and sister have received word that he was in or about St. Louis, but they never have been able to see or speak with him.

A week ago information was received that Kubitz (he sometimes spells his name Cubits), was in Granite City, Ill. A search there showed that he had been boarding with W. C. Kline. Kline told the young man's relatives that he had gone to St. Louis. Mrs. Kubitz hopes someone will see her boy and urge him to come home to her.

WEALTHY FARMER FOUND IN HAYLOFT WITH ACID NEAR

M. A. McMahon's Ill Health Thought to Be Cause for Attempt on Life.

CONDITION CRITICAL

Wife Is Attracted to Barn by Groans an Hour After He Takes Poison.

M. A. McMahon, a wealthy landowner and stock raiser of Jersey County, Ill., swallowed carbolic acid in the hayloft of his barn at the northern border of Jerseyville Thursday morning and is in a critical condition. Ill health is assigned as the cause.

McMahon arose at 5:30 o'clock. An hour later, when his wife called him to come to breakfast there was no answer, and she went to look for him. She heard groans coming from the hayloft and found him lying on the hay with a tin cup by his side which had contained the carbolic acid.

Mrs. McMahon called her 20-year-old daughter, Elsie, and Drs. H. R. Gledhill and A. S. Hunt were summoned. They worked all forenoon to save his life.

McMahon is 47 years old. He has extensive land-holdings in Jersey County and near Decatur, Ill., and has been a very successful stockman. For seven or eight years he has been in ill health. He has three children, Elsie, 20; Dorris, 15, and an infant son.

WOMAN SWALLOWS FALSE TEETH, IS FOUND STRANGLED TO DEATH

Coroner's Theory Is They Became Dislodged as She Fell on a Stairway.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Miss Surrena Buntin, 56 years of age, was found dead at the bottom of the stairs in her home, 102 East Third avenue, by her sister Leontine, who had returned from a shopping trip.

The Coroner was called, and it was believed at the time that her neck was broken. A close investigation disclosed that she had swallowed her false teeth and strangled to death.

The theory is advanced by the Coroner that the woman, upon losing her balance on the stairs, attempted to save herself and that the teeth became loosened as she tried to scream for help and lodged in her throat.

U. R. MILLION-DOLLAR MILL TAX CASE WILL BE DELAYED

Judge Homer's Resignation From Bench Makes Rehearing a Probability.

It is expected at the City Counselor's office that the adjudication of the suit to compel the United Railways Co. to pay its million-dollar mill tax will be delayed for several months, through Judge Homer's appointment as Excise Commissioner.

The case is set in his court for the October term, but he has announced that he will quit the bench Oct. 1. The case has already been heard on the law, and it is set for trial on the facts.

The city's legal staff expects that Judge Homer's successor will feel it necessary to hear the case over again from the beginning, so as to make himself competent to pass judgment.

BROKEN TROLLEY BURNS HORSE BUT ANIMAL'S OWNER ESCAPES

Driver Falls Within Six Inches of Charged Wire When Wagon Stops Suddenly.

Robert Ross of Reeb Station, near Belleville, knows how it feels to come within six inches of being electrocuted. His horse knows how it feels to have the electricity of the East St. Louis & Suburban Electric Railway system passing through its system for 20 minutes.

Ross was driving into Belleville and was near the Southern Railway crossing when the trolley wire broke and wound itself around the horse's heels. Ross was thrown out and came within six inches of getting tangled in the wire.

The horse had fallen over as if dead. The wire was disentangled with pieces of wood 20 minutes later, and the horse struggled to its feet. The wire had burned its way, however, to the bone in one of the horse's legs.

SUITOR SEEKS A WARRANT FOR MOTHER OF GIRL

Complains That Woman Who Had Him Arrested Annoys Him.

Lazard M. Cahn, 20 years old, ticket seller at a Delmar boulevard moving picture show, wants protection against Mrs. Dorothy Johnson of 789 Bayard avenue, who is sick in bed. Cahn, who has had a peace warrant issued against Mrs. Johnson, says she has threatened him because of his attentions to her 15-year-old daughter, Lucille.

A month ago the girl swallowed iodine and morphone but her life was saved. Mrs. Johnson sent Lucillle out of the city Saturday. Sunday evening Cahn called. He says Mrs. Johnson sent for him, but she denies this.

Lets Him Write Girl.

She refused to tell him where Lucille had gone, but agreed for him to write a letter to the girl, and he wrote as follows:

"I am here at your home tonight, but I do not know where you are at because mother won't tell me. I have confessed everything and acknowledged wrong without your mother forcing me to. My darling wife, I will give your mother an engagement ring. She will mail it to you by return mail."

Cahn says Mrs. Johnson locked him up and threatened him. She denies it, but says Cahn had a policeman come to the house. She utilized the policeman by having Cahn arrested. Monday night he was released at her request. He swore out a peace warrant against her Wednesday. She retaliated by swearing out a State warrant against him.

CONSERVATION CONGRESS IS LIKELY TO CLOSE THURSDAY

President Declares He Probably Will Hold a Night Session to Finish Early.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 8.—It is possible that the National Conservation Congress, which, by the program, should continue tomorrow, will close tonight. President Baker said he would crowd the program as much as possible to this end, and perhaps hold a night session. It has been a strenuous convention and delegates and visitors want a rest.

The presidency is expected to go to J. B. White of Kansas City, the present chairman of the Executive Committee. Gifford Pinchot told his friends that he would not be a candidate.

Members of the Resolutions Committee met early to draft a platform. T. Gilbert Pearson of North Carolina, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, introduced a plank for the protection of wild birds.

W. D. Simmons of St. Louis spoke today, pointing out the necessity of conserving the nation's business men and caring for their interests.

CHICAGO COUPLE MAKE A DIRIGIBLE FLIGHT IN MUNICH

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Beale Have an Exciting Trip in Storm Cloud.

MEET AN AVIATOR

Exchange Compliments With a Man in an Aeroplane in Upper Mists.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

MUNICH, Sept. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. William G. Beale of Chicago were passengers on the dirigible balloon Parseval III on an exciting trip from Munich Tuesday. The huge airship encountered stormy weather and ran into fog and violent rain.

Beale thus described his sensations on the voyage to the Post-Dispatch correspondent today:

"After leaving Pasing, dense storm clouds appeared ahead and the Parseval, heading against a strong wind, drove straight into the clouds. It was foggy and rain fell in torrents, but suddenly we burst from the clouds into glorious sunshine.

"Below us lay the aviation ground at Packheim and somebody cried: 'There's an aviator.'

"Far below we saw a speck, which grew larger and larger, until we could easily make out a man in an aeroplane. He was the famous flyer, Lindpaintner. He flew close enough to shout a salutation to the commander of our vessel. We signaled Lindpaintner with handkerchiefs and he returned the compliment."

WEYMANN TO FLY IN NEW YORK MEET

J. Armstrong Drexel Also Gives Notice He Will Take Part in Events.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Two prominent American aviators, Henry Weymann and J. Armstrong Drexel, both of whom are now in Europe, have given notice to the committee in charge of the international flying meet that they will be on hand to compete in nearly all the scheduled events. The meet is to be held at Belmont Park next month.

Weymann recently has been making excellent records in various parts of Europe. His best feat thus far was his attempt to win the $30,000 Michelin prize offered for a flight from Paris to the Puy-de-Dome, a distance of 260 miles, in six hours. He failed by a narrow margin on account of fog and bad weather. Weymann expects to come to America some time during the present month and will be at Belmont Park with his machine before the opening of the meeting.

Drexel who was a star performer at the Lanark meeting in Scotland, and who, until recently, held the world's altitude record, also will come to this country during September. He will use a Bleriot monoplane.

Other new entrants to the international meet are Wilfrid A. Dunn of London, who will use a Teller monoplane; Adolph Warchatowski, an Austrian, who recently made a flight over the Imperial Castle of Luxembourg; Carl Illner, a pupil of Henry Farman, and Alec Ogilvie, selected as the third British representative in England's international team with James Radley and Claude Grahame White.

John B. Moissant, the former Chicagoan, who this week completed his flight from Paris to London, will be a competitor for the international prizes if he is able to get a suitable aeroplane in time. He expects to get a 100-horsepower Bleriot in which Leblanc recently made 63 miles an hour.

In an interview cabled to this side, Moissant explains that he does not want to fly in his own country until he is certain that he can make a good showing. The aeroplane in which he made his Paris-London flight is badly damaged. It will take some time to repair it, besides which he does not think it powerful enough.

SPRINGFIELD (MO.) FIRM ASKS ADJUSTMENT OF FRISCO RATES

Complaint Declares Increase Has Curtailed City's Wholesale Business.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Freight rates advanced, it is alleged, from 10 to 50 per cent on general commodities are subject to a complaint filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the McGregor-Noe Hardware Co. of Springfield, Mo., against the St. Louis & San Frncisco Railroad Co. The advances are from Springfield, Mo., to points in Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

By the tariff filed by the defendant certain commodity rates are abolished absolutely, while those left in force are increased. It is alleged that this action of the railroad is prejudicial to the complainant and has curtailed seriously the wholesale business of Springfield.

The commission is requested to restore the rates which were in effect in the Autumn of 1909.

WIRES HOT IN EFFORT TO SAVE BALLINGER'S JOB

Republicans Trying to Get Absentees Together for Friday's Meeting.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 8.—Wires were busy last night and today calling to this city absentee members of the Congressional Committee to investigate the Ballinger-Pinchot question.

Following the action of the committee yesterday, when it adopted a motion setting forth Secretary Ballinger was an unfaithful servant and recommending that he be ousted, the Republican members have awakened to a realization that they are in the hands of the opposition.

At the meeting tomorrow the question will turn on the legality of the vote taken yesterday. If it is held that the members present yesterday constituted a quorum, the vote will stand in the record, whatever future action may be taken.

INDIANAPOLIS IS SEEKING ESCAPE FROM POLITICIANS

Civic Club Is Investigating the Commission Forms of Government.

CHARTER A FAILURE

Nonpolitical Scheme Worked Well for a Time, Then Spoilsmen Grabbed It.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 8.—The people of this city are seriously considering the commission plan of city government, and the Commercial Club has appointed a committee to investigate. This will be followed by the presentation of a bill to the Legislature. A number of other cities have the subject under consideration, and it is not improbable that the coming year may witness a radical change in the government of many of the larger Indiana cities.

Indianapolis has tried two forms of city government and has found both of them sadly deficient. Under the old regime, when the city was governed by a common council and a board of aldermen, there was constant friction and very little progress in any direction that would tend to the city's growth. The two bodies were often antagonistic, and the Mayor was nothing more than a police judge, and without authority outside of the Police Court.

The change was a radical one when the Legislature granted the city a special charter which made the Mayor supreme by placing in his hands the appointment of all the boards and making them responsible only to him. The Board of Aldermen was abolished and the membership of the Common Council was so reduced that it was thought the people would not make so many mistakes in its selection.

Primary Law Spoiled the Plan.

Under the new order of things the city began to be transformed into a real city. Public improvements of every kind were undertaken and pushed through; a sewer system was planned and executed, more than 100 miles of block and asphalt streets were laid, and every business felt and responded to the new impetus.

Under the new system the city has had three Democratic and three Republican mayors, but from the first there has been a marked tendency to retrogradation in the men thus selected. Under the primary or direct nomination law it has been found impossible to induce men of recognized business ability to stand for nomination, and the office of mayor has gone time after time to the man who was best able to invoke politics and make the greater number of plausible promises.

Change Must Be Radical.

There seems to be no prospect of getting rid of the direct nomination law in the near future, and the first aim of the people would be to get a charter that would permit them to make their selections of candidates or members of the commission in such a way that the irresponsible class would not be "the whole thing" in making nominations.

There is a feeling in business circles, not confined to any one class, that the bane of the city is politics and that its eradication would mark a new epoch. The present charter was approved by the people largely because it was thought that it would reduce political power to the minimum in city affairs, but there is really no nonpartisan feature in the city government.

The Commercial Club Committee, composed of 10 members, is said to be very favorable to the commission plan and to be a unit in the sentiment that something must be done to change present conditions. They also agree that there can be no change without a radical change in the charter, and the Galveston or Des Moines plan seems to them to be the most feasible and at the same time the most practical form of government that they could recommend.

Evansville, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute, South Bend, Richmond and other cities, governed by charters similar to that of this city, are struggling with the same problems that confront the people here, and if the new plan is adopted the bill in the legislature will be made so broad as to include them within its provisions.

BEES IN BATHROOM GIVE MAN A FREE ELECTRIC TREATMENT

Miner Swings Towel in Desperate Battle With Swarm That Entered Window.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 8.—Removing his bathrobe and placing one foot in the cool water that filled his bathtub, E. Chapin Gard, a Denver mining man, was suddenly electrified by a series of sharp pains in practically every portion of his anatomy. At the same time a loud buzzing filled the room. Then followed turmoil.

Other occupants of the house, who came to investigate the disturbance, found Gard, in the costume of a prehistoric warrior, valiantly swinging a wet bath towel and waging desperate battle against a swarm of bees that had invaded the bathroom through a hole in the window screen.

Sugar Beets Thriving on Cold.

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Sept. 8.—The sugar beet crop which had many setbacks in the spring is thriving on the recent cool weather and was not harmed by the recent frost. Tomatoes and cucumbers were stopped by the frost and late potato and vine crops were injured.

NEW STRENGTH FOR BAD BACKS

Thousands of men and women who work every day have lame, weak, aching backs.

They do not know that bad backs are caused by sick kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills have given strong, sound backs and well kidneys to a multitude of suffering men and women.

Backache is usually kidney-ache. The kidneys are in the small of the back, and when they get congested, inflamed and swollen (a cold, fever, strain or hurt will often start the trouble) there is a dull, heavy, draggy pain right in the small of the back, that changes at times to sharp, shooting pangs, or stab-like twinges when stooping or lifting.

It is torture to bend or straighten, hard to sit down or get up, or even to turn over in bed. You rise in the morning tired, sore and lame.

And when the urine is dark-colored, cloudy, or contains sediment like grains of sand, you have double proof that your kidneys need attention. Neglect may bring on gravel, dropsy or a bad case of Bright's disease or diabetes.

Cure Your Backache and Lameness by Curing Your Kidneys

Doan's Kidney Pills quickly help weak kidneys. Don't waste time and health and money trying other new and unproven remedies of similar names. Doan's have a record of 75 years of success in curing backache, kidney and bladder troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills have won fame all over the civilized world, and are endorsed by people whom you can call on for verbal proof.

ST. LOUIS TESTIMONY.

Sherman Poe, 325 St. George st., St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have had no occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills since they cured me of kidney complaint in October, 1906. At that time I gave a statement for publication, telling of my experience, and now I am pleased to confirm it. My system was all run down, due to disordered kidneys and no rest. My complexion was sallow, and other symptoms of kidney trouble plainly told me that something must be done. The contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., cured me."

BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM FALL FROM TRESTLE TO OIL BATH

Trying to Escape Rice and Old Shoes, They Plunge Into Factory Refuse.

ANSONIA, Conn., Sept. 8.—Miss Hannah McCready and Edward Gilbert, two popular young people, were married last evening and intended taking a train for Buffalo, where they expected to spend their honeymoon. Over 50 of their friends were at the station to bid them good-by.

To escape the showers of rice the young couple ran down the railroad tracks. There is a trestlework over the river and the couple, who were not conversant with the locality, ran off the wall and fell into the river. John McCready, the best man, was close to their heels, followed by a half dozen young people. They succeeded in rescuing the couple, but the newlyweds were a sight to behold.

The factories deposit the refuse oil and grease in the river, and the bride was covered with oil from head to foot. A hack was hired and the newly-wedded couple were driven to their home. The bride is prostrated from her unusual experience.

CHINESE KILLED IN THEATER

Americans See Tragedy Due to a Tong War.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Two shots fired in quick succession killed a Chinese and caused a near panic last night in Chinatown's Oriental theater, the audience of which was made up largely of Americans and tourists.

Lew Sing Chow, a member of the On Yick tong, was the victim of the assassin's pistol. To mistaken identity Lew Sing Chow forfeited his life, for the police are positive that the slayer was of the Suey Sing clan, and believed Lew Sing Chow was a hated Hop Sing.

A stampede by the audience was stopped by switching on the lights. Police ran toward the theater and caught two suspects, Len Tong, who was carrying a fully loaded revolver, and Pay Sing, who had no weapon. The pair were locked up for investigation.

Wind Draws Water From Well.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 8.—The prize story as a result of the recent storm is that of Joe Marrow, a court baliff. The frame structure over a well at his home place was blown away and when replaced, no water could be drawn. Investigation showed the well dry, although there had been several feet of water in it before the big wind.

MORSE PLACED IN A SOLITARY CELL, BUT NOT DUNGEON

Warden Declares Banker-Convict at No Time Was on Bread and Water Diet.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 8.—In response to a telegram from the Attorney-General's office at Washington, Warden W. H. Moyer of the United States Prison here, has issued an official statement in regard to the punishment inflicted on Charles W. Morse, the former New York banker and steamship and ice magnate, whose fortune at one time was estimated to be high in the millions.

The Warden announces that Morse was confined for two days in a solitary cell. This punishment followed his refusal to acquaint the prison officials with the source from which he had received money, it being $46 in all, in violation of the rules for a prisoner to receive or keep money.

Warden Moyer says he ascertained that the money was given to Morse by his wife and by W. P. Reid, Morse's former business partner. The Warden denies that Morse was confined in a dungeon or that he was ever put on bread and water. He says that Morse's confinement in the solitary cell in nowise injured his health, but that on the contrary Morse is at present in much better health than when he was admitted to the prison.

Money Goes to Home Prisoner.

The bulk of the money went to a discharged prisoner, a lame Polish youth. The Warden did not think, however, that Morse knew that the money was to be thus used, as he gave it to a nurse to distribute as she thought best. In the statement he made, Warden Moyer said:

"On the second day of Morse's confinement I was on my way to see him. I met Mrs. Morse and she asked permission to see her husband. I told her that Morse was in trouble and that she could not see him on that day.

"Mrs. Morse announced that she had a confession to make to me. She stated that she had given her husband $15, smuggling it into his coat pocket while he was signing some papers in the office.

"Morse made a similar confession a short time afterward, except he placed the amount given him by his wife at $5 instead of $15. During the course of my interview with him he finally admitted that he had $46 in all—$15 given to him by his wife and the $31 which his former partner, W. P. Reid, had slipped to him during a conversation between them in the prison.

"Morse told me that he had given $1 each to two of the prisoners, that he had $3 himself and that $41 he had placed in an envelope and given over to the keeping of another prisoner.

NAGEL SAYS ALASKA SHOULD HAVE ITS OWN GOVERNMENT

With Attorney-General Wickersham, He Speaks Humorously of Political Events.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—Speaking at a smoker given in their honor last night by the Arctic Club, Attorney-General Wickersham and Secretary Nagel referred humorously to the political events in their six weeks' absence in Alaska.

Nagel said he hoped none of the new Republican platforms favored the free coinage of silver. Wickersham said Alaska had not received proper consideration by Congress. The question of the development of Alaska's resources was not for him to decide, but for Congress. The time for giving away national assets had passed, he said.

Nagel favored representatives in Alaska with authority and discretion, because in a country so far removed, long distance government was dangerous and ineffective. He would have officials who could say yes or no without asking Washington.

Nagel and Wickersham departed for Portland, whence Wickersham will go to Butte and Nagel to San Francisco.

THAW PREPARING TO RENEW FIGHT FOR HIS LIBERTY

Slayer of Stanford White Engaged Daily at Matteawan With Staff of Lawyers.

ESCAPE PLOT DENIED

Attorneys Assert That No Plan Was Made to Take Him Out of State in Auto.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—In the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, Harry K. Thaw is making elaborate preparations to renew the fight for his liberty. The slayer of Stanford White is working several hours every day with a staff of legal experts under the direction of Clarence J. Shearn, and within two months it is expected he will be taken from the asylum on a writ of habeas corpus.

Thaw's confinement has been tightened since the hospital authorities were informed, it is alleged, of a plot to rush the prisoner from Fishkill to Connecticut in a high-power motor car.

"Thaw is sane. It will be a matter of only a few months until he is a free man," said Henry J. Rice of the Shearn law office. "Thaw can never again be tried by a jury and there will be enough proof to show that the man is not a maniac. It is up to the State to prove him insane. They never can do it."

Mother Aids the Prisoner.

Rice has been in conference with Thaw every afternoon, while Mrs. Thaw, the prisoner's mother, has been offering suggestions on which to get additional proof of his sanity. Every affidavit obtained from the nurses and attendants is carefully read by Thaw before he allows it to be set aside for use in the courts.

While Thaw and his lawyers were mapping out their plan for his release, the doctors at the hospital say that the prisoner will never gain his freedom. They regard the affidavits given by employes of the institution as valueless and say they have observed his condition every day and could find nothing to show that he has improved.

An attendant who has been with Thaw since he was placed in the asylum said the prisoner had not shown any signs of improvement. He denied that the attendants who had been closely associated with Thaw had made affidavits to prove his sanity.

Mrs. William Thaw has a cottage at Fishkill Landing, where she and her lawyers spend many hours in consultation, after the conference at the hospital. Rice, who has been detailed by Shearn to prepare the affidavits made by attendants and those given at former insanity proceedings, with the minutes of the trial, is at the hospital every afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock.

BLACK MAMMY TO BAKE CORN "PONE" AT PURE FOOD SHOW

Italian Restaurant Set in an Italian Garden Will Be a Feature Also.

An Italian restaurant set in an Italian garden, with all the native salads and sauces served by pretty Neapolitans, is the latest foreign feature added to the Pure Food Show which will convert the Coliseum into a gastronomic paradise the week of Sept. 19.

The foreign delicacies, including an extensive exhibit of Dutch foods, Mexican condiments and tropical fruits from Cuba and Honolulu, will be but a small part of the show, which will have more exhibits from American manufacturers than ever shown at a food show in America.

The Pure Food Show will be a domestic science and home economics school for women. They will be given lectures on proper diet for the sick and the well; how to buy economically and thus do away with the present high expenses of food, and countless demonstrations on the preparation of all sorts of food.

Cornbread made by an old-fashioned black mammy, apple cider from the press while you wait, bread fresh from the oven, and preserves and jellies galore, all await the taste of the Pure Food Show visitor, who will be given as many samples as he wants.

ENGLAND REGARDS FISHERIES AWARD AS A VICTORY FOR HER

Newspaper Praises Judge Gray for Casting Vote Against His Own Country.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The Hague award forms the principal topic of editorial comment in this morning's papers. The decision of the tribunal is generally regarded as a great victory for Britain, and a still greater one for the cause of arbitration. W. T. Stead, the special correspondent of the Daily Mail at The Hague, says:

"The hero of the tribunal is Judge Gray, the American arbitrator, who, like Lord Alverstone in a previous award, has had the courage to decide against his country's contention when he was convinced that it was unjust. There are judges in America, as of old time it was said there were Judges in Britain."

The award has given unqualified satisfaction to the British counsel, who have obtained more than they ventured to hope for in their most sanguine moments. The Americans are naturally less elated, but accept the award with excellent good temper.

HOW AN EXPRESSMAN SAVES MONEY

This party has Savings Account No. 16XXX. He does a general hauling business. Consignments received in bulk are unpacked and delivered to various firms. This gives him a large number of wooden packing boxes. He sells these and each month deposits every cent thus received on his Savings Account. Many persons would throw the boxes away, but this man's unique plan has enabled him to save many dollars. Every person should not only have a Savings Account but a definite plan. We invite you to start such an account with us today and if you wish, our Savings Department will gladly help you to work out a plan.

PURE MILK FROM MODEL HERDS IS GIVEN TO BABIES

Supply Received at Post-Dispatch Distributing Stations From Jarvis, Mo.

THEATER IS HELPING

Benefit Week Is Extended Two Days, So That More Can Join Charity.

Daily shipments of milk from the two herds of cows at the model farm at Jarvis, Mo., are being made to supply the need of the babies of St. Louis. From the distributing stations of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund the mothers of many babies are receiving pure milk of the proper strength every day at the direction of physicians, who order the milk prepared to meet the needs of each particular child. This changeable, damp weather makes it necessary to keep up the work, so well begun.

Pleasing reports of the success of the gala week at the Magnet Theater, 4238 Manchester avenue, are being made by the young women who are selling tickets in the prize contest. Misses Hazel and Gertrude Helfrich of 4308 Manchester avenue, who are members of the flying squadron of ticket sellers, are so enthusiastic at the success of the benefit performances that they have volunteered to do a song and dance act as a part in the vaudeville program at the Magnet Theater Thursday night.

Magnet Theater Benefit Extended.

By continuing the benefit for two days, Manager Sabelman is confident that the receipts will compare favorably with the donations from any other section of the city. The net receipts of the week and two days, ending Friday night, will be donated to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. The prizes donated by the merchants in that vicinity to be given to the young women who sell the largest number of tickets will be awarded by a committee on the stage of the theater Saturday night. It has been found impracticable to calculate the full returns in time to award the prizes at the close of the contest Friday night.

Babies' hour at the Pure Food Show in the Coliseum increases in interest daily. Several of the exhibitors will make extra efforts to sell their products during babies' hour from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 24, in order to increase their donation to the Pure Milk Fund for the babies.

The proceeds of the box office during that hour, and the gross receipts at the booths of exhibitors in the show for that 60 minutes, will be donated to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. The big benefit, coming on the closing day of the show, promises to boost the fund to help the babies appreciably.

Booths for Fund at Show.

Arrangements are being completed for the two booths to be maintained in the show near the main entrance by the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. These booths will enable all visitors to donate to the fund at any time in the week. Several young women will have charge of the booths. Some of them successfully conducted a booth for the benefit of the fund to save the babies at the recent Made-in-St. Louis show.

This is an excellent time to become a partner in the charity work by donating to the fund. More money is needed, and pure milk must be supplied to the little ones.

W. J. HOLBROOK RETURNS AFTER 2 MONTHS IN ATLANTIC CITY

Real Estate Man Spent Much Time in New York Arranging Business Details.

W. J. Holbrook, president of the Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co., has returned to the city, after a two months' sojourn at Atlantic City with his wife and young daughter.

Holbrook spent much of his time in New York City, where he arranged for the necessary details of such projects as the Holbrook-Blackwelder company may introduce during the year.

The Holbrook-Blackwelder concern now is in correspondence with a number of large Eastern manufacturers, with a view to locating them on the Union racetrack, at Union and Natural Bridge road, which is to be converted into an independent terminal and shipping center.

According to Holbrook, conditions are auspicious for a big year in the St. Louis realty market.

ROE'S TRIPLANE IS SMASHED, BUT AVIATOR IS UNINJURED

Englishman Probably Will Be Unable to Compete Further in Meet.

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—While trying to land with his triplane in front of the grand stand, from an elevation of about 25 feet, A. V. Roe, the English aviator, so badly damaged his machine today at the Boston-Harvard aviation field, that in all probability it will be out of commission for the remainder of the meet. Roe was uninjured.

Both the professional and amateur air pilots stated today they would attempt to clip whatever records have been made at the meet. Spurred on by the large lead in the number of points held by Claude Grahame-White, the professional aviators made preparations today to attempt to overcome the Englishman's advantage.

TEN PACKERS AND TEN COMPANIES TO BE INDICTED SOON

Chicago Federal Grand Jury Pushes Work Following Taft's Visit There.

LANDIS BACK AND BUSY

National Packing Company Is to Bear the Brunt of Latest Attack.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—With the return of Judge Landis from his summer vacation, increased activity is noticeable in the Federal grand jury room.

Indictments against the 10 directors and other officials of the National Packing Co. are expected this week. Besides the individuals, 10 subsidiary companies operating in Omaha, Kansas City, East St. Louis, New York and New Jersey will be charged with conspiracy and restraint of trade. The work of the grand jury is practically completed. Two or three witnesses from the East will be heard today and the hearing will be finished. Judge Landis in his instructions called upon the jury to indict individuals where the evidence justified indictments.

The investigation has covered seven months. The first grand jury, summoned in January, indicted the National Packing Co. and 10 subsidiaries, but failed to hold any individuals. The Government indictment expert's work was not satisfactory and Judge Landis quashed all the indictments and called a new grand jury. The important point in his latest instructions was a demand for the indictment of individuals. The latest investigation has extended over a period of four months.

The National Packing Co., the $15,000,000 corporation which the Government charges is operating in violation of the anti-trust law, is to bear the brunt of the grand jury's attack. Officers of the concern, the majority of whom are connected with other stock yard concerns, are said to be among those under fire. President Taft, while here on his way to St. Paul, had a conference with W. S. Kenyon, Special Attorney-General, who has been in charge of the investigation.

Whether President Taft's conference with Mr. Kenyon led to the "hurry up" proceedings in the grand jury chambers is a matter of speculation. It is not denied by Government officials that the national executive gave a "push" to the proceedings.

FUNERAL OF JOHN F. W. MEYER TO BE HELD IN FORT WAYNE

Founder of Big Drug Company Died Wednesday at the Age of 85 Years.

The funeral of John F. W. Meyer, 85 years old, one of the founders of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., who died Wednesday at Fort Wayne, Ind., will be held Friday afternoon at Fort Wayne. He is survived by his widow and seven children. His sons and nephews living in St. Louis will depart Thursday to attend the funeral.

Mr. Meyer had retired from active business, although he retained a directorship in the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., founded by him and his brother, C. S. G. Meyer, in 1865. He celebrated his golden wedding anniversary at Fort Wayne last May. His widow is 70 years old.

Mr. Meyer came to America in 1849. He became an errand boy in a drug store at Fort Wayne, and later became a partner in a drug store there. From this business the Meyer Bros. Drug Co. was established, and has grown to be one of the largest concerns in the drug line in the country. The children surviving Mr. Meyer are: Mrs. G. F. Burkhardt of Boston, F. G. Meyer of New York, W. L. and G. T. Meyer of St. Louis, Mrs. John Langenberger and Mrs. Pauline Paul of Fort Wayne.

Files Suit After Wife Is Victim of Supposed Jewel Robbery.

Henry G. Darrow, whose wife, Mina Darrow, complained to the police Sunday that $2200 worth of jewels had disappeared from her house at 3515 Lucas avenue and caused the arrest of "Dute" Killian, has filed suit for divorce.

In his petition Darrow alleges that Mrs. Darrow associated with other men and that he found her in company with Killian at a Garden on Delmar avenue. Darrow says he asked his wife to go home with him, but she refused. They were married March 25, 1905, and separated July 15, 1910.

Sheriff Collects Liquor Tax.

LAWRENCEBURG, Ky., Sept. 8.—R. S. Collins, former sheriff, won his suit in the Circuit Court here for $1021.19 commissions on taxes collected from the distilleries here. TRAMP REPAYS "SQUARE MAN"

Former Friend Received Dollar Weekly, No Explanation.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 8.—The "Dollar Bill Mystery" has been solved. Every week for months Robert J. Mitchell, an undertaker, of 127 First street, has received in his mail an envelope containing a dollar bill. The missives came from Southern cities. Mitchell had no idea who sent them.

Last week a $2 bill arrived from Chattanooga, Tenn., and with it an explanation. Daniel O'Hara, who is "Baltimore Dan" among tramps, wrote that he was paying back the loans he had obtained from Mitchell when he, Dan, had been stranded in Elizabeth. "I still owe you several bucks, but you are going to get it and I'm going to make good," wrote the hobo. "You were square to me and I'm going to be square to you."

Unique Life Insurance Contest.

HENDERSON, Ky., Sept. 8.—The Equitable Life Insurance Co. is contesting the payment of $2000 to Mrs. Zora Eblen, named beneficiary in the policy of her husband, Bain Eblen, on the grounds that she, "Without just provocation shot and killed her husband and that by such act she is not entitled to be the beneficiary." Mrs. Eblen is now in jail awaiting trial on a charge of murdering her husband.

PARTS OF BODY IDENTIFIED AS CRIPPEN'S WIFE

Woman Recognizes Hair and a Scar as That of Belle Elmore.

TRIAL IS RESUMED

Dentist Talks to Former Typist, but She Replies in Monosyllables.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—At the resumption today of the trial of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Ethel Clara Leneve for the murder of the former's wife, Public Prosecutor Humphreys introduced evidence to establish the claim of the Crown that the parts of the mutilated body found in the Crippen home once formed a part of the person of Belle Elmore, the missing wife, and to so strengthen what has been popularly regarded as the missing link in the chain of circumstantial evidence against the accused.

Witness Called.

The first witness today was Mrs. Adeline Harrison, whose acquaintance with Belle Elmore had extended over a period of 12 years. Mrs. Harrison was asked to examine strands of hair found when the dismembered body was uncovered, and, having done so, she swore that she recognized the exhibit as similar to that worn by Belle Elmore.

A torn bit of feminine underwear also discovered by the searchers in the cellar was next introduced, and the witness declared that she had seen Belle Elmore clothed in undergarments of a like texture. Testimony had been offered before showing that the lower part of the body bore a scar, the result of an operation.

Mrs. Harrison testified that she had seen a similar scar on the body of her friend.

The accused were seated at the dock within whispering distance, and the doctor took advantage of the opportunity to speak to the girl. The girl had a woebegone appearance and did not seem eager to converse. Crippen, to whom his spectacles had been returned for the first time since his arrest, appeared as the Crippen of early photographs. He spoke to the girl anxiously and she replied in monosyllables.

In his cross-examination of Mrs. Harrison, Arthur Newton, representing Crippen, detracted somewhat from the strength of the evidence and incidentally indicated what is believed to be the line of defense.

In reply to Newton's question, the witness assented to the suggestion that the hair, the portion of a woman's vest and the curling iron found in the Crippen cellar were not only similar to those worn or used by the missing woman, but also "resembled thousands of others."

When Mrs. Harrison left the stand the prosecution called the chemist who says that he sold hyoscine, a deadly poison, to Crippen.

The witness testified that the doctor purchased five grains of the drug on Jan. 19, explaining that he required the poison for use in homeopathic preparations.

Signed for Poison.

As is required of purchasers of poisons, he signed the registery book of the store, making this inscription:

"Munyons, per H. H. Crippen."

Inspector Dew, who arrested the fugitives and brought them back from Quebec, re-entered the witness box today and read a lengthy statement signed by Crippen when the police first asked him to make an explanation of his disappearance from London after suspicion had been directed against him. The gist of the statement had already been covered by Humphreys in his opening address.

Inspector Dew also testified regarding the search of Crippen's house and told of finding there a loaded revolver and a box of cartridges.

The statement which Chrippen made to Inspector Dew concluded:

"My belief is that my wife has gone to Chicago to join Bruce Miller."

HYOSCINE IS NOT USED BY MUNYON

Physician Also Says Crippen Had Quit Before Date of Purchase.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 8.—The testimony of a London chemist in the Crippen trial today in which the witness stated that Crippen purchased five grains of hyoscine on January 19 for use in homeopathic preparations and that Crippen signed "Munyon's, per H. H. Crippen" in the chemists registry book, was shown to Dr. J. M. Munyon, of this city, by whom Crippen had been employed.

Dr. Munyon stated that the deadly poison was never used by him in his preparations and that Crippen never put up any remedies for him, as all that work was done in Philadelphia. Dr. Munyon further said that Crippen severed his connection with the Munyon interests in December, 1909. He had been engaged only to answer medical correspondence for the company.

LONDON DOCTOR AND HIS TYPIST AS THEY SAT ON TRIAL IN THE BOW STREET COURT

ALL THE SECRETS OF OUR CITY ARE TOLD IN RED BOOK

Where to Go, Why and Wherefore, Are Set Forth in Highly Colored Volume.

Turn the city directory and the two telephone directories inside out and hindside-before, and you have the Red Book, the highly colored and valuable book which the Gould Directory Co. has just issued.

For instance, the city directory is all right, if you only want to know who John Smith is and where his place of business is. It will tell you that he is president of the Smith Realty Co., 639 Chestnut street.

But if you don't know John Smith, yet have business with the Smith Realty Co., and want to find out the first name of its president, and the names of other persons to ask for in case the president is not in, you have reached the point where you need to take a look at the Red Book. A glance at its "corporation directory," which fills 103 pages of the book, will show you that John Smith is its president, James Smith its secretary and Herman Schneider its vice-president. This arms you with the information you want in entering the office. The book contains lists of the officers of every corporation in the city.

A Telephone Convenience.

Or if you are merely looking for Abe Slupsky's telephone number, the telephone directory will show you that it is Delmar 3925L. But if, knowing nothing about Abe Slupsky or his telephone number, you enter your office and find a memorandum asking you to call up Delmar 3925L, a glance at the salmon-colored pages in the Red Book will show you who the "party" is, and will help you to decide whether to comply with the request or not. The numbers of every Bell and Kinloch instrument in the city are given in order, with the names opposite.

If you want to know where the Mullanphy Emigrant Relief Fund has its office, the city directory will show you that it is at 307 Locust street. But if, not knowing about the Mullanphy affair, you want to find out what is at 307 Locust street, without taking the trouble to go there in person and see, you will need the Red Book. It has a street directory arranged by streets and numbers, with the names of all business tenants of every store, warehouse and office building on every street from Abner place to Wyoming street.

Besides these three features, the Red Book contains business directories of St. Louis, East St. Louis, Granite City, Madison and Venice, Ill., classified according to lines of business.

Former Beauty Dies at Age of 86.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Concha Garcia-Lambert, 86 years old, one of the most beautiful women of her time, and daughter-in-law of William G. Lambert, one of the founders of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, is dead in St. Luke's Hospital of pneumonia.

Arm Is Injured In Train Window.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Frederick Gasdey of Chatham, N. J., may lose his arm because he thrust it out a train window yesterday to wave a good-by to a friend. It struck a mail catcher device and was badly injured.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

DEAD MAN IS NOMINATED TO RUN FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL

La Follette's Running Mate Drowned, Too Late to Take Name Off Ticket.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 7.—Frank T. Tucker of Neillsville, though dead, has been nominated on the La Follette State ticket for the office of attorney-general by a plurality estimated at 10,000.

Tucker was drowned in a mysterious manner in the Fox River at Oshkosh last Thursday morning, when he was supposed to be on his way to catch a train. It was too late in the campaign to substitute another name in his place and Charles H. Crownhart, manager of the La Follette campaign, sent word to voters throughout the State, advising them to vote for Tucker, with the idea in view of having the State Central Committee later on substitute another man in Tucker's place, in case he was nominated.

A sensation in connection with Tucker's candidacy was the discovery at Madison that a large number of stamped envelopes belonging to the State were used in sending out some of Tucker's campaign literature. Tucker denied that he had anything to do with the "deal," and said it was a "frame up" by some of his enemies.

SQUIRRELS ROUT SPARROWS FROM TREES AFTER BOMBS FAIL

Seven Animals Victorious Against Thousands of Birds in 4-Day Battle.

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., Sept. 8.—A three-day battle between English sparrows and red squirrels ended when a flock of the birds, estimated at several thousand, with a great twittering forsook the lofty row of trees in Midland avenue and took up a new home in the woodland between Glen Ridge and Montclair.

The sparrows had become a public nuisance in Midland avenue, where the trees arch overhead and give a tropical look to the street. The birds came there in such numbers sleep grew to be almost an unattainable luxury on the part of the human residents of the vicinity. For the last four weeks nightly pyrotechnical bonds were fired off in the foliage. A number of birds were killed, but soon the birds would not even fly away while the bombs were going off.

Edward Bartelow of Green Pond, who was a visitor at one of the Midland avenue houses, trapped seven red squirrels near his home and brought them to Glen Ridge. He distributed them over the trees and the combat at once began. The red squirrel robs nests and eats both old and young birds, and the attacks of these little tree climbers on the sparrows could be plainly heard by the householders.

UNION STAMP IS PUT ON PLANT OF BUCK'S STOVE CO.

Factory Employes Will Be Organized Within 30 Days —Agreement Signed.

Organized labor and the Buck's Stove and Range Co. are now at peace. The four-year war was ended Wednesday night when an agreement was signed at the Southern Hotel. The employes are to be unionized and the plant is to resume operations in 30 days.

The agreement lifts the boycott from the product of the Buck company and commends it to union men and union sympathizers. Nothing as to wages and hours is mentioned in the articles, because that would aid C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Mich., a minority stockholder, in the injunction suit he has brought to restrain the unionizing of the plant. It is merely agreed that "the matter of wages, hours or labor and conditions of employment in the Buck's Stove and Range Co. shall be adjusted on a basis of fairness."

The conference began at 2:30 o'clock and lasted, with an intermission for dinner, until 8:30 o'clock. The company was represented by Frederick W. Gardner and H. C. Thompson, who signed the agreement. The representatives of organized labor were headed by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Gompers said the agreement was a final adjustment of the controversy. "We are at peace with the company," he said. "We are going to maintain that peace, for we are convinced that the policy of the new management of the company is to deal fairly and squarely by labor."

NATALINA CAVALIERI

CAVALIERI IS "SURPRISED" AT STORY OF A SEPARATION

Naive Message Denies That There Has Been a Quarrel With Her Husband.

Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

PARIS, Sept. 8.

"AM surprised to hear such a thing. My husband is gone for his work. I was not able to start with him, for the reason I have only been operated on for appendicitis. I have no strong desire for a long journey. There is no separation between us, truly.

"CAVALIERI-CHANLER."

This naive message from the prima donna, wife of Robert Winthrop Chanler, the artist, is in reply to questions cabled by the New York World and Post-Dispatch for information or details of reports of a separation. Cavalieri sings in French and Italian, but limps a little in English, and her cable is published in her own phraseology.

Painter John La Farge Recovering.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—John La Farge, 75 years old, the painter, who has been ill for several months, is gradually regaining his strength at Newport and expects to return to this city in about two weeks, when he will devote himself to making cartoons for several stained-glass windows.

Woman to Be Country Treasurer.

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 8.—By a vote larger than the combined votes of her two male opponents, Nellie M. Archibald, a widow supporting several small children, was nominated at the primaries for treasurer of Ashland County. Her nomination is equivalent to an election.

Keene's Condition Improving.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 8.—The condition of James R. Keene was reported by officials of the Good Samaritan Hospital to be steadily improving.

"Yes, I'll Marry You—

if you will agree to a platonic marriage—no children, no love-making, rooms in a hotel, and an allowance." Would you accept those terms? An old dodo might, but you, never! You wouldn't be getting what you want. As a wife or a husband, you are selfish. As a friend—you can not be. So it's harder to be a friend than a mate. And it's harder still to be what a German means when he says, as the Kaiser said to Roosevelt, "mein Freund." Do we often make friends like that? Can a woman ever? What do you think? There is a man who has thought about this a great deal. He says what he thinks in the October DELINEATOR, page 257. It's good reading.

ROOSEVELT'S SOCIALISM.

Mayor Seidel of Milwaukee has made a great mistake in refusing to act on a Roosevelt reception committee. He and other Socialists who denounce Mr. Roosevelt's published criticisms of Socialism are wholly wrong. They owe Mr. Roosevelt homage rather than condemnation. However ignorant he may be of the theory, he is doing the practical work of Socialism.

What more could Socialists ask as a preliminary step than Roosevelt's plan of a strong centralized government with practically unlimited power, overriding state rights, controlling all national resources and regulating not only public service corporations, but all corporations doing an interstate business. The regulation of railroads carried to the extreme inevitably means state control and operation of railroads. The regulation of the great industrial corporations and of all interstate business organizations would force government control and ultimate operation of industry and commerce.

The substitution of government regulation for individual responsibility under law in business activities of the country offers no halfway station this side of state Socialism.

The "new nationalism" as Mr. Roosevelt defines it in his advanced policies is another name for Socialism. It leads through absolutism to Socialism—the centralized Socialistic state. The Socialists should hail Mr. Roosevelt as a master builder.

Ballinger has not yet been fired but the kindling has been cut.

THE VICTIM.

The coal miners who, through the Post-Dispatch, commented on Mr. Devoy's statement about the effect of the strike on the price of coal, are right and wrong. They are right in saying that the increase far exceeds the increase of miners' wages, but wrong in saying that the dealer gets the excess. There is an increase along the line—the miners and workers getting some, the operators some and the dealers some. The relative excess of demand over supply forces up the price of coal which the coal dealers must pay, and they, like all dealers, make a profit on everything they pay out.

Let us do justice to the coal dealer; he has his troubles and is entitled to his profit. But the consumer pays all the increase—the miners', operators' and dealers'. He is the victim.

If it hadn't been for the pesky stand-pats of Vermont the thing would have been unanimous.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

One of the new terrors of our modern civilization is the disease known to the learned as "polyomyelitis," but generally spoken of as "infantile paralysis." It it said to be epidemic in certain towns as far apart as Massachusetts and Kansas, and instances of it have appeared in our own city.

A careful review of the nature of the disease and of the methods of treating it will be published in the Magazine Section of the Post-Dispatch next Sunday. The article will be accompanied by photographic illustrations and also by diagrams showing the method of treating the paralyzed muscles by surgical operation. This method of remedy was invented by surgeons of the St. Louis Children's Hospital and is the only one thus far discovered for repairing the waste caused by the disease.

Taft asked the conservation congress for a statement of specific wrongs and specific remedies, but Teddy stuck to glittering generalities and got the glad hand.

WOMEN AND RELIGION.

A discussion of why women are deserting the churches leads a religious weekly of wide circulation to scold severely. It enlarges on "Sabbath-breaking" and cigarette smoking among women. It even accuses women of Sunday baseball.

All of this and a great deal more, seems to go back to an original text, based on statistics attributed to "Gypsy" Smith and two other evangelists, who are said to report average conversions of "five men at their meeting to one woman."

One explanation, not yet suggested for this, is that the five men converted may need it most. Another is that when attacked for sins of which they are not guilty, women are not converted from them because they are not convicted on the evidence. If for example, all the American women who smoke cigarettes were suddenly converted, it might make little difference in the percentage of gains to losses, if safety is made to appear dependent on escape from the cigarette habit or anything whatever of the kind.

Another explanation is that though women, being human, often talk nonsense themselves, they are not deeply touched in soul when nonsense is talked to them or about them. It is certainly nonsense that they are leaving the church because of cigarette smoking and baseball. It is probably nonsense that they are leaving it at all, or that the churches anywhere are gaining in male membership at the expense of female.

INSURGENCY UP TO DATE.

Wisconsin not only declared its confidence in the irreverent La Follette, but promised forever to abstain from intermittent regularity. The newly awakened Republicans of Michigan decreed the end of Burrows' usefulness to capital and privilege. In Vermont such regularity as survived sulked at home and New Hampshire shook off the shackles of the railroads and stand-patism.

These were neither Iowa affairs nor Kansas affrays. They occurred in states where Republican regularity has found unfailing comfort and support. Wisconsin not only indorsed its previous half-hearted recreancy but emphasized it. Michigan shook off Burrows after 33 years of humiliation at his hands. New Hampshire upset hallowed traditions, sacred precedents and Senator Gallinger's composure.

What does it mean? It is party revolution. It may be political revolution. The insurgents are not going to withdraw from the Republican ranks. Their ostensible purpose is to reform what they oppose out of the party and what they advocate into it. Whether the overwhelmed reactionaries stay in or get out matters little. Once in the promised complete control of the insurgents the party will assume that it is released from its obligation to defend its indefensible record and will parade before the people promises newly painted and principles made gaudy to attract votes. It has La Follette and Dolliver, Cummins and Bristow, Murdock and Pinchot to offer as proofs of its integrity, and Roosevelt, the arch-opportunist, riding the crest of the wave of the "new nationalism," to sound its praises with his own. So far as recent declarations give a view of its principles, the movement is toward centralization of power in the Federal Government. It is the plea for the regulation of everything assuming concrete form. Instead of making a return to Democratic principles, it gets still further away.

But can the new movement be trusted to reform the evils of Republican rule and lead the people to a safe path of progress? Is there not danger that the party revolt will be used as a device to keep protesting Republicanism in the ranks? Will it not be made an instrument to serve the ends of shrewd politicians? Mr. Roosevelt evidently appreciates its value in practical politics.

Will Republicans turn the light on corrupt Republicanism? We know the Democrats, if placed in power, will.

The arbitrary on grain has been abolished. It looks as if it was going to be one of those piecemeal, Taft revisions.

PROFIT AND LOSS.

The Chicago Evening Post has compiled some figures on the construction of new buildings and the losses by burning, that are both interesting and staggering. It appears that the rate of construction in American cities so far for the year justifies an estimate of a total of $1,000,000,000 at the close. But the losses by fire will probably reach the sum of $280,000,000. The cost of fire departments will amount to $300,000,000. So that eliminating all questions of the cost of insurance, the fire loss and cost will cut down the gain of construction by more than half.

This is the sort of figuring that gives pleasure to those who believe that every fire improves business and industry by putting money into circulation. These people hold to the theory that if we were to burn down all the buildings we put up each year, business would be exceedingly lively all over the country. It is much the same as the protective tariff doctrine that the more you interfere with commerce the more you benefit industry. It sounds silly, but there are some folks who belief it to be sound notwithstanding.

The dispute between New Orleans and San Francisco might be compromised by holding that Panama Canal exposition at Panama itself.

PROF. MARSH'S PROBLEM.

As an authority on the congestion of population, Prof. Benjamin Clarke of New York reasons well and forcibly, even when he is reasoning backward. It is not necessary to mention the learned Latin name for this easy method of beginning to think. As it is usually called "starting wrong end to," it calls for a great deal of forcible thinking to reach a conclusion, after the beginning all of us can so easily make, with the cart before the horse.

After beginning to sum up this year's census figures and beginning to see that congestion on the Atlantic coast may have revolutionary possibilities, Prof. Marsh concludes that we are threatened with an impossible situation because our centers of production are too far from our centers of congested population.

With the conclusion turned in this way, the situation is indeed impossible, as this year's summaries will show. But when the conclusion is turned "right end to," or toward the existing situation, the impossibility disappears. The existing situation then appears, necessarily, developing into something a great deal more natural and not at all impossible.

By centers of production Prof. Marsh means the states which feed the population congested on stone and concrete-covered earth which will not feed them. As centers of production the Western and Southern States are not too far from this congested population, but it is too far from them. They cannot move nearer to it. The congested population can and must move its centers nearer to the centers of production. That is all there is in an otherwise impossible situation. There must be movement or starvation.

There is wild excitement in New York because Charles Frohman has advocated Sunday theatrical performances. However great the opposition it would be an agreeable variation from the metropolitan Sunday occupation of "canning beer."

Couldn't Mr. Roosevelt be induced to say a kind word for Ben Tillman? Tillman would be an insurgent if he were a Republican.

If Teddy wishes to keep at the head of the insurgents after this, he will have to raise the speed limit.

Hon. Wash Gardner, Representative from the Third Michigan District, was defeated for renomination and only the week before he had promised that he would never, never vote for Cannon again. He won't.

Senator Root has returned from Europe with such a large amount of nothing to say about New York politics, that his silence ought to be taxed as a foreign ornament.

The National Ladies' Tailors Association has disapproved the hobble skirt; in fact, nothing has been omitted to make hobbling exclusive and desirable.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Holiday Mail Facilities.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Uncle Sam's employes deserve a holiday on Labor day as much as other workers, but the Postmaster should see to it that the public is not too greatly incommoded. Thousands of persons who had letters to mail went to the front entrance of the postoffice on Olive street and tried to insert the letters in the slot provided for that purpose in one of the big doors, but found said slot blocked at the back by a piece of wood. Over the slot was the usual printed notice about "packages too big to go in this slot may be mailed in a large box in the Eighth street lobby." If the slot in question was not intended to be used at all, this notice ought not to have been over it, as it was misleading; and the slot should have been covered in such a way as to show that it was not to be used. Then no one would have been fooled into trying it. CITIZEN.

The Recall for Public Servants.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As I understand the situation, it seems to be that Mr. Bartholdt, who is Congressman, is derelict in his duty, according to Mr. Maurer, who would be Congressman in his place. As a Socialist, I have no fault to find with either man as an individual. They are products of the present system. But as representatives of the two oldest political parties which have long ago outlived their usefulness to "the people," I have this to say: All Socialists will agree that were Socialist candidates to win their political power tomorrow and take office under the present competitive system, without the "recall," things would be no better than at present; that it is impossible for any man to walk the straight and narrow path in politics, as it now is.

We still need and are going to see that all sincere public officials indorse the initiative and referendum and the recall, with special emphasis on the latter. BENTON CORWIN.

Who Saw This Accident?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I a writing to ask the aid of the people's column of the Post-Dispatch. I was run down by an automobile just as I stepped from a Tower Grove car at Pine street and Broadway, on May 2, and my leg broken in three places; was instantly picked up by men in the machine and driven to the dispensary. This happened between 5 and 6 p. m., and although a policeman is stationed on this corner, there was no report made of the accident, and although there were hundreds of people near at the time, I have been unable to get a single eyewitness. Will be very grateful to hear from anyone who saw this accident, as I have been laid up for three months and will have trouble with my foot for years to come, through the carelessness of this reckless automobile driver.

Kindergarten Age.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I think the School Board should look into this matter of allowing children under 6 years of age to attend kindergarten. They ought to look up the birth record of every child suspected of not being of age and dismiss them at once. There is too much of this going on. I know of four children in the neighborhood, all of whose mothers have not only told lies themselves, but have told the child to lie also, just for the sake of getting rid of the poor child for a few hours. I would like to see this taken up at once, as there are many little children who ought to be at home with mother. C. M.

Dogs in Cities.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The article in this column of last Thursday's edition regarding a method for reducing the number of our stray dogs by taxing females beyond the desire of most owners to afford would seem to have its economical advantages aside from sentimental reasons. It points out wherein we have been operating this scheme of destruction backward. Whoever originated the present plan of hunting dogs in several of our cities, or by what power it is being perpetuated, is unknown to me, and I for one man protest against any voluntary responsibility for present methods, and I believe many men experience an inward inclination to mob a "dog wagon." They cannot abide that sort of thing with much better grace than women, although perhaps with different emotions. Will someone with knowledge of this matter explain for the benefit of the uninformed. M. G. H.

Where Danger Lurked.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish to express my thanks to those people who warn drivers of bad places in the public roads, especially those people who live near 3100 Arlington avenue.

While driving in the heavy rain Monday afternoon, I was stopped on a bridge by a kind woman, who notified me of the danger into which I was driving, of which I knew nothing. There was a big hole in the road filled with mud, and it was deep. Had the horse gotten into it, it would have caused trouble, and it might even mean death.

People who thus warn a man from impending danger should be greatly honored and rewarded. LEO OLIAN.

Teddy, the Would-Be Dictator.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Is not this fine talk for American statesmen to listen to from a private citizen?

"I am equally anxious to make the gentlemen who mark time or fall back come forward; and I also want to make those exuberant progressives who desire to exceed the speed limit remember they must not behave as if the bridle were off!"

And who is to set the pace? The people? No; the dictator. It is he that is to pull on a hard-bitted bridle, and he who is to apply the whip. And are the elected representatives so deficient in self-respect as to take this insolence, this avowed curbing and lashing from their self-constituted driver, who makes President, Vice-President and congressmen report to him their every move in advance or reverse their acts if done without his approval? If he makes them cringe now, what will he do if again made legal dictator?

His bridle is off and he is certainly exceeding the limit, and kicking over all the fences. One can, in a way, understand the freaks of overfed exuberance, but what are the people who own the fields thinking of to allow it? Q.

MANCHESTER'S SHIP CANAL.

From the New York Evening Post.

Twenty-five years after the passage of its Ship Canal Act, Manchester is still levying a ship canal tax-rate and the market value today of £8,000,000 of share capital fully paid up is little more than £1,000,000. Twenty thousand ordinary shareholders have never had a dividend. The city still awaits a sufficient return on its loan of above £6,000,000 to provide an appreciable contribution toward the rates. Yet, in these years, Manchester has taken rank as one of the first ports in the United Kingdom, and her lord-mayor, at the fiftieth half-yearly meeting of shareholders recently held, did not hesitate to declare that the people of Manchester have benefited enormously, and that the city's merchants and property owners have been paid for every penny they invested. The chairman of the company pointed out the fact that the great benefit to the district's trade has been the very cause of the great loss to shareholders, because the charges to and from the sea by every route have been sharply reduced by the canal which is forced to meet this competition of its own making.

TURN ON THE LIGHT.

From the New York World.

Every farmer that paints a house or a barn pays tribute to the Guggenheims.

Every family that has a bathtub or plumbing in the house pays tribute to the Guggenheims.

Every housewife that uses zinc-coated kitchen utensils pays tribute to the Guggenheims.

And Simon Guggenheim, by grace of the Republicans of Colorado, sits in the United States Senate to frame tariff schedules for the family.

Aldrich and Guggenheim are now a matter of record. How many other senators are there who have been engaged in revising the tariff for the benefit of their own pockets?

Method in His Heroism.

From the Washington Star.

"It was noble of you to jump in and save your worst enemy from drowning."

"Well, I can't claim much credit. I had just been reading the swimming articles that tell you it is best to avoid struggles with a drowning man by giving him a hard punch on the jaw. I simply couldn't resist the temptation."

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

HOW WOULD THIS DO?

While the committee on the $1000 award is hesitating between the three Missouri songs already submitted by Just a Minute, we wish to contribute a fourth one.

I.
Missouri, 'tis of thee,
Land of the pawpaw tree,
Of thee I sing.
I love thy pawpaws so,
I love thy pawpaws, O,
From everywhere they grow
Let praises ring!

II.
My well-beloved state,
Land of the pawpaw great,
Thy name I love.
I love thy pawpaw trees,
Thy forests full of these,
And cheer with loud whoopees
The fruit thereof.

III.
Let Autumn chill the breeze,
And ripen on the trees
Our home banan',
Let frost and dew bedight
Thy growing fruit by night,
Eventually to delight
The inner man.

IV.
Missouri's word for it,
This product prime and fit
Is going some.
Here where the Autumn nods,
And all the hungry gods
Are gathering with clubs and clods,
O, yummy-yum!

THE NEW THING IN ZOOS.

If anything is to come of the suggestion that we have a more representative and attractive zoo, let us hope that it will be in spirit with the new St. Louis.

There are zoos and zoos. The Montezumas collected odd types of humanity, and the last of the Aztec kings especially prided himself upon his big cage of red-headed people. A common humanity has outgrown that sort of thing, and in our own time zoos have confined themselves pretty religiously to the four-foots and birds.

But the zoo of the future will be more than humane. It will be useful. The folly of a large and sometimes hungry community maintaining a lot of lions, tigers, monkeys and boa constrictors, is being more and more realized every time we have a lean year. The edible zoo is the zoo of the morrow. What may be eaten in time of stress is just as interesting in time of abundance as what on the contrary has to be fed.

True, the Republican party's theory of government has never yet reduced us so far; but you never can tell.

SUFFICIENCY.

There has been some controversy over whether Mr. Roosevelt is or is not a great man.

Yesterday, we think, settled it. He is a great man. Anyone of his prominence who can refuse to drink beer in Milwaukee and get away with it, is a great man.

There are other tests, but the beer test in Milwaukee is all that any reasonable person could ask.

Lady: I want to get a two-story hat.

JOHN CHEARY.—The writer remembers well the nomination and election of Abraham Lincoln. The name of Lincoln's party was Republican and the national ticket was printed "Republican ticket." Some of the old tickets are still preserved.

J. M.—It is not necessary to have practical experience in order to become a student in the Government Department of Forestry. A person desiring to become such a student should write to the United States Department of Agriculture, Forest Service, Washington, D. C., for an application blank.

ANXIOUS.—Your lot being higher than your neighbor's gives him no right of action against you unless the water therefrom collects in a body and drains upon his premises. Your lot being level the overflow into his premises or seepage into his cellar is something he alone must guard against.

HONEST SYMPATHIZER.—It is asserted that locomotor ataxia cannot be cured. It is asserted that it can be cured. We have no personal knowledge in regard to it. There is evidence of cures of diseases by osteopathy, Christian Science, magnetism, divine healing, spirit forces, etc., but we have not space for discussions in regard to them. A patient and his friends should use their common sense, if they have any.

SMITH.—We have this from eminent Catholic authority: The Pauline privilege is the privilege which may be obtained by a pagan who on becoming baptized Catholic may have a previous marriage contract with another pagan annulled, and the baptized Catholic may marry again provided that the party of the previous marriage remaining a pagan refuses to live with the Catholic party, or will not live unless in religious bitterness and contumely to the Creator.

ALICE.—Tomato catsup: Scald and strain good, sound tomatoes through a sieve; allow to each quart of the strained mass two and a half tablespoonfuls each of black pepper, salt and ground mustard; one of ground cloves and two cups of sugar; boil two hours and bottle. Another recipe is to skin and slice a bushel of tomatoes; stew them until soft, rub through a sieve and boil until the pulp is soft, adding two ounces of salt when the mixture is about the consistency of apple butter, add a quart of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of ground mustard, an ounce and a half of ground pepper, one of ground cinnamon and half an ounce of ground cloves; put in a cup of sugar, boil up twice and bottle.

ALL BIT UP.—For chiggers: Hyposulphite of soda. Dissolve it in water, making a nearly saturated solution and moisten or bathe the spots where the chiggers have burrowed. The pests are evidently killed when the solution reaches them through their burrows in the skin and then the irritation ceases permanently, though sometimes two or more applications may be required for obstinate or deep set cases. No harmful nor disagreeable effect has attended the liberal use of a strong solution of this compound. It acts as a cure and preventive combined. The solution should be applied as needed to as much of the body as becomes necessary to meet the extent of the exposure. Allow the solution to dry on the skin without wiping. An application made early in the morning has proved sufficient to last a day and even longer. Having taken proper precautions in this manner, a person may traverse the worst infested thickets with impunity.

Love and Matrimony

Advice on Affairs of the Heart, Written for the Post-Dispatch By BETTY VINCENT.

THERE is a certain type of young man whom his friends describe as a "rough diamond."

Too often this expression is applied to a person whose manners are rude and whose speech is common, but who it is assumed possesses the more rugged virtues merely because he has no polish. A young woman's fastidious instinct shrinks from this type of man, but she is often told by older persons that she should overlook his defects of manner because he has such a good heart. Now, my dear girls, don't you do anything of the kind. Waste no time on the man who does not take the trouble to be agreeable to you. I don't mean that you must prefer the sort of suitor that pays silly compliments. But I do advise you to choose for a husband a man who shows his respect for women by the observance of the small courtesies of life.

A. B. writes: "A young man calls on me quite frequently. The last few times he has attempted to demonstrate his affections in a roundabout way. He tells me he cares for me very much, but does not ask for my undivided attention. Does this man really care for me?"

Perhaps the young man is not in a position to marry you, and for that reason does not make such a request. Do not make the mistake of giving up your other friends for him.

PEGGY writes: "I am twenty years of age, considered very beautiful and have many admirers, one of whom, a Cornell graduate, is very persistent in declaring his love for me. I cannot return this young man's affection for the reason that I love another. How can I make this clear without hurting his feelings?"

There is just one way—tell him the facts. If his feelings are hurt it will be his fault, not yours. You need not consider him beyond your own peace of mind.

Coffee Cakes and Cupid

One of Love's Little Strategies as Seen

By HOMER CROY.

NO American mother would ever admit that she set out with intent and purpose to marry her daughter off well. Mothers high and low vum and avow that Cupid must take his course.

But that only shows what subtle psychologists mothers are. They have a strange way of knowing just how far Gen. Cupid has progressed in his campaign against the valvular citadel. When he is in his last trenches and ready to charge, they make their daughters move their forces from the uptown restaurant to the home; from the after-theater supper to the home luncheon.

It makes no difference how honest a mother may be, she knows many tricks in the trade of love. She knows that whoever was responsible for the old adage that the nearest way to a man's heart was through his stomach had first-hand information. But she has gone a step further than the proverb-maker, for she has added that it must be done at home, and not at a restaurant. She knows that her daughter never looks more entrancing than when pouring a cup of tea; she knows that a hotel dinner with thirty-five minutes wait between courses never melts a lover's heart so quickly as peanut-butter spread on salt crackers by a young girl in the privacy of her own residence. Thus it is that the mother maneuvers to have her daughter pass the coffee cakes in a quiet hour in the home. The young man looks ahead and sees her going through that delightful operation at a breakfast table of his own in a time to come. The circuit between his heart and his stomach is complete.

The glare and glitter of a restaurant where it takes three boys to open the door does not affect the young man's heart nearly as much as a tete-a-tete over a table laid for two in a girl's own home. A waiter with a number on his coat can't compare to Hulda with a smile on her face.

Of course the young man never things of it; it never enters the girl's mind. The mother merely suggests to the daughter that she have the young man to lunch some day; and, presto! Cupid has twanged his bowstring. Truly, mothers move in a mysterious way their wonders to perform.—Lippincott's.

ONE WAY TO SAVE.

SOME of the best results of thrift plans carried out with the idea of providing income are attained by taking steps to assure the safety of the income in the event of the breadwinner's death.

Not long ago a salaried man who had $5000 insurance on the twenty-payment plan bought another policy of a sort now being sold by insurance companies. His wife is not a good business woman, and he had seen one or two sad cases where widows left with a lump sum of insurance money were victimized by worthless investment sharpers. So his new policy was of a kind that, as the agent who sold it said, gave "two dollars a day income for a dollar a day premiums." Briefly, the salaried man pays about $300 a year in premiums—he is 37 years old—and whenever he dies his widow will begin receiving $50 a month. This income will continue as long as she lives, and she cannot change the form of payment. If she dies before the income has been paid 20 years, her children or heirs will receive it until the 20-year period is ended.

As the insurance money, by this plan, remains partly on deposit with the company, such a policy yields more in the long run than one under which a lump sum is paid down at death. Among the many new insurance companies organized the past few years is one in which policies are based wholly upon the income principle. A man of 30, by paying $36 a year as long as he lives, or $52 on the 20-payment plan, can provide an income of $100 a year for his widow for 20 years, with $500 additional to be paid in a lump sum when he dies.—Saturday Evening Post.

THE GIRL FROM HIS TOWN

By Marie Van Vorst

(Copyright, 1910, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Dan Blair, heir to $50,000,000, goes to London from his home town in Montana. Partly because of his wealth and partly because of his personality and his adept use of slang, he becomes popular in English society and is "taken up" by the Duchess of Breakwater. In company with Lady Breakwater, Dan sees a performance at the London Gaiety. He recognizes Letty Lane, the star, as a girl who once sang in a church choir in his home town. Lord Galorey warns Ruggles, Dan's business agent, that certain English society women have designs on the young man's money. Ruggles decides to save Dan both from society and the opera singer, Letty Lane. The Duchess of Breakwater, showing her jealousy, refuses to accede to Dan's request that she become the social sponsor of Letty. Dan follows Letty Lane to her dressing room in the Gaiety. She faints and he carries her to a couch. He revives her and she dances as usual in the second act. Letty accepts Dan's invitation to a dinner, with Ruggles as the other invited guest. At this dinner Letty asks Dan to furnish money to build a rest home for theatrical women. Riding home with Letty Lane in her automobile Dan tells her of his engagement to marry the Duchess of Breakwater. Letty dismisses him.

CHAPTER XIV.

From India's Coral Strands.

MRS. HIGGINS, in Miss Lane's apartment at the Savoy, was adjusting the photographs and arranging the flowers when she was surprised by a caller, who came up without the formality of sending his name.

"Do you think," Blair asked her, "that Miss Lane would see me half a minute? I called yesterday, and the day before, as soon as I saw that there was a substitute singing in Mandalay. Tell her I'm as full of news as a charity report, please, and I rather guess that will fetch her."

Something fetched her, for in a few minutes she came languidly in, and by the way she smiled at her visitor it might be thought Dan Blair's name alone had brought her in. The actress had been ill for a fortnight with what the press notices said was influenza. She wore a teagown, long and white as foam, her hair rolled in a soft knot, and her face was pale as death. Frail and small as she was, she was more ethereal than when in perfect health.

"Don't stand a minute." And by the hand she gave him Dan led her over to the lounge where the pillows were plied and a fur-lined silk cover thrown across the sofa.

"Don't give me that heavy rug, there's that little white shawn." She pointed to it, and Dan, as he gave it to her, recognized the shawl in which she wrapped herself when she crossed the icy wings.

"It's in those infernal side scenes you get colds."

He sat down by her. She began to cough viololently and he asked, troubled, "Who's taking care of you, anyway?"

"Higgins and a couple of doctors."

"That's all?"

"Yes. Why, you should be?"

Dan didn't follow up his jealous suspicion, but aksd in a tone almost paternal and softly confidential:

"How are your finances getting on?"

Her lips curved in a friendly smile. But she made a dismissing gesture with her frail little hand.

"Oh, I'm all right; Higgins told me you had some news about my poor people."

The fact that she did not take up the financial subject made him unpleasantly sure that her wants had been supplied.

"Got a whole bunch of news," Dan replied cheerfully. "I went to see the old man and the girl in their diggings. Gosh, you couldn't believe such things were true."

She drew her fine brows together. "I guess there are a good many things that would surprise you. But you don't need to tell me about hard times. That's the way I am. I'll do anything, give anything, so long as I don't have to hear hard stories." She turned to him confidentially. "Perhaps it's acting in false scenes on the stage; perhaps it's because I'm lazy and selfish, but I can't bear to hear about tales of woe."

What she said somewhat distrurbed his idea of her big-hearted charity.

"I don't believe you're lazy or selfish," he said sincerely, "but I've got an idea that not many people really know you."

This amused her. Looking at him quizzically, she laughed. "I expect you think you do."

Dan answered: "Well, I guess the people that see you when you are a kid, who come from your own part of the country, have a sort of friendship." And the girl on the sofa from the depths of her shawl put out a thin little hand to him and said in a voice as lovely in tone as when she sang in Mandalay:

"Well, I guess that's right! I guess that's about true."

After the tenth of a second, in which she thought best to take her little cold hand away from his big warm ones, she asked:

"Now please do tell me about the poor people."

In this way giving him to understand how really true his better idea of her had been.

"Why the old duffer is as happy as a house afire," said the boy. "Not to boast, I've done the whole thing up as well as I knew how. I've hot him into that health resort you spoke of, and the girl seems to have got a regular education vibe! She wants to study something, so she's going to school."

"Go on talking," the actress invited languidly. "I love to hear you talk Montana! Don't change your twang for this beastly English drawl, whatever you do."

"You have, though, Miss Lane. I don't hear a thing of Blairtown in the way you speak."

And the girl said passionately: "I wish to God I spoke it right through! I wish I had never changed my speech or anything in me that was like home."

And the boy leaning forward as eagerly exclaimed: "Oh, do you mean that? Think how crazy London is about you! Why, if you ever go back to Montana, they will carry you from the cars in a triumphal chair through the town."

She waited until she could control the emotion in her voice.

"Go on telling me about the little girl."

"She was so trusting as to give the money up to me and I guess it will drawn interest for her all right."

"Thank you," smiled the actress, "you are terribly sweet. The child got Higgins to let her into my dressing room one day after a matinee. I haven't time to see anybody except then."

Here Higgins made her appearance in the room, with an egg-nog for her lady, which, after much coaxing, Dan succeeded in getting the actress to drink. Higgins also had taken away the flowers, and Letty Lane said to Dan:

"I send them to the hospital; they make me sick." And Dan timidly asked:

"Mine ,too?"

This brought a flush across the ivory pallor of her cheek. "No, no, Higgins keeps them in the next room." And with an abrupt change of subject she asked: "Is the Duchess of Breakwater very charitable?" And Blair quickly replied:

"Anyhow she wants you to sing for her at a musicale in Park Lane when you're fit."

Miss Lane gave a soft little giggle. "Is that what you call being charitable?"

Dan blushed crimson and exclaimed: "Well, hardly!"

"Did you come here to ask me that?"

"I came to tell you about 'our mutual poor.' You'll let me call them that, won't you, because I happened to be in your dressing room when they struck their vein?"

Miss Lane had drawn herself up in the corner of the sofa and sat with her hands clasped around her knees, all swathed around and draped by the knitted shawl, her golden head like a radiant flower, appearing from a bank of snow. Her fragility, her sweetness, her smallness, appealed strongly to the big young fellow, whose heart was warm toward the world, whose ideals were high, and who had the chivalrous longing inherent in all good men to succor, to protect, and above all to adore. No feeling in Dan Blair had been as strong as this, to take her in his arms, to lift her up and carry her away from London and the people who applauded her, from the people that criticized her, and from Pointontowsky.

He was engaged to the Duchess of Breakwater. And as far as his being able to do anything for Letty Lane, he could only offer her this politeness from the woman he was going to marry.

"I never sing out of the theater." Her profile was to him and she looked steadily across the room. "It's a perfect fight to get the manager to consent."

Blair interrupted and said: "Oh, I'll see him; I'll make it all right."

"Please don't," she said briskly, "it's purely a business affair. How much will she pay?"

Dan was rather shocked. "Anything you like."

And her bad humor faded at his tone, and she smiled at him. "Well, I'll tell Roach that. I guess it'll make my singing a sure thing."

She changed her position and drew a long sigh as though she were very tired, leaned her blond head with its soft disorder back on the pillow, put both her folded hands under her cheek and turned her face toward Dan. The most delicate coral-like color began to mount her cheeks, and her gray eyes regained their light.

"Will two thousand dollars be too much to ask?" she said gently.

If she had said two million to the young fellow who had not yet begun to spend his fortune, which as far as he was concerned was nothing but a name, it would not have been too much to him; not too much to have given to this small white creature with her lovely flushed face, and her glorious hair.

"Whatever is your price, Miss Lane, goes."

"I'll sing three songs; one from Mandalay, an English ballad and something or other, I don't know what now, and I expect you don't realize how cheaply you are getting them." She laughed, and began to hum a familar air.

"I wish you would sing just one song for me."

"For another thousand?" she asked, lifting her eyebrows. "What song it is?"

And as Dan hesitated, as if unwilling to give form to words that were so full of spell to him, she said deliciously: "Why, can you see a London drawing room listening to me sing a Presbyterian hymn tune?" Without lifting her head from the pillow she began in a charming undertone, her gray eyes fixed on his:

"From Greeland's icy mountains,
From India's coral strands,
Where Afric's sunny fountains
Roll down their golden sands."

Blair, near her, turned pale. There rose in him the same feeling that she had stirred years ago in the little church and at the same time others. He had lost his father since then, and he, thought of him now, that that big, sad emotion was not the one that swayed him.

"Please stop," he pleaded; "don't go on. Say, there's something in that hymn that hurts."

Letty Lane, unconscious of how subtly she was playing, laughed, and suddenly remembered that Dan had sat before her that day by the side of old Mr. Blair. She asked abruptly:

"Why does the Duchess of Breakwater want me to sing?"

"Because she's crazy about your voice."

"Is she awfully rich?"

"Um * * * I don't know."

Letty Lane flashed a look at him. "Oh," she said coolly, "I guess she won't pay the price then."

Dan said: "Yes, she will; yes, she will, all right."

"Now," Letty Lane went on, "if it were a charity affair, I could sing for nothing, and I don't doubt the duchess, if she is as benevolent as you say she is, could get me up some kind of a charity show."

Dan, who had started to rise, now leaned toward her and said: "Don't you worry about it a bit. If you'll come and sing we will make it right about the price and the charity; everything shall go your way."

She was seized upon by a violent fit of coughing, and Dan leaned toward her and put his arm around her as a brother might have done, holding her tenderly until the paroxysm was past.

"Gosh!" he exclaimed fervently, "it's heart-breaking to hear you cough like that and to think of your working as you do. Can't you stop and take a good rest? Can't you go somewhere?"

"To Greenland's icy mountains?" she responded, smiling. "I hate the cold."

"No, no; to some golden sands or other," he murmured under his breath. "And let me take you there."

But she pushed him back, laughing now. "No golden sands for me. I'm afraid I've got to sing in Mandalay tonight."

He looked at her in dismay.

She interrupted his protest: "I've promised on my word of honor, and the box office has sold the seats with that understanding."

By her sofa, leaning over her, in a choked voice he murmured:

"You shan't sing! You shan't go out tonight!"

"Don't be a goose, boy," she said. "You've no right to order me like that. Stand back, please." As he did so she whisked herself off the sofa with a sudden ardor and much grace. "Now," she told him severely, "since you've begun to take that tone with me, I'm going to tell you that you musn't come here day by day as you have been doing. I guess you know it, don't you?"

He stood his ground, but his bright face clouded. They had been so near each other and were now so removed.

"I don't care a damn what people say," he replied.

She interrupted him. She could be wonderfully dignified, small as she was, wrapped as she was in the woolen shawl. "Well," she drawled with a sudden indolence and indifference in her voice, "I expect you'll be surprised to hear that I do care. Sounds awfully funny, doesn't it? But as you have been coming to the theater now night after night till everybody's talking about it—"

"You don't want my friendship," he stammered.

And Letty Lane controlled her desire to laugh at his boyish subterfuge. "No, I don't think I do."

Her tone struck him deeply; hurt him terribly. He threw his head up defiantly.

"All right, I'm turned down then," he said simply. "I didn't think you'd act like this to a boy you'd known all your life!"

"Don't be silly, you know as well as I do that it won't do."

He did know it and that he had already done enough to make it reasonable for the duchess, if she wanted to, to break their engagement. Slowly preparing to take his leave, he said wistfully: "Can't I help you in any way? Let me do something with you for your poor. It's a comfort to have them between us, and you can count on me."

She said she knew it. "But don't come any more to the wings; get a habit of not coming."

On the threshold of her door he asked her to let him know when she would sing in Park Lane, and in touching her hand he repeated that she must count on him. With more tenderness in his blue eyes than he was himself aware, he murmured devotedly:

"Take care of yourself, won't you, please?"

As Blair passed from the sitting room into the hall and toward the lift, Mrs. Higgins came out hurriedly from one of the rooms and joined him.

"How did you find her, Mr. Blair?"

"Awfully seedy, Mrs. Higgins; she needs a lot of care."

"She won't take it though," returned the woman. "Just seems to let herself go, not to mind a bit, especially these last few weeks. I'm glad you came in; I've been hoping you would, sir."

"I'm not any good though, she won't listen to a word I say."

It seemed to surprise the dressing woman.

"I'h sorry to hear it, sir; I thought she would. She talks about you often."

He colored like a school boy. "Gosh, it's a shame to have her kill herself for nothing." Reluctant to talk longer with Mrs. Higgins, he added in spite of himself: "She seems so lonely."

"It's two weeks now since that human devil went away," Mrs. Higgins said unexpectedly, looking quietly into the blue eyes of the visitor. "She hasn't opened one of his letters or his telegrams. She has sold every pin and brooch he ever gave her, scattered the money far and wide. You saw how she went on with Cohen, and her pearls."

Dan heard her as though in a dream. Her words gave form and existence to a dreadful thing he had been trying to deny.

"Is she hard up now, Mrs. Higgins?" he asked softly. And glancing at him to see just how far she might go, the woman said:

"An actress who spends and lives as Miss Lane does is always hard up."

"Could you use money without her knowing about it?"

"Lord," exclaimed the woman, "t wouldn't be hard, sir! She only knows that there is such a thing as money when the bills come and she hasn't got a penny. Or when the poor come! She's got a heart of gold, sir, for everybody that is in need."

He took out of his wallet a wad of notes and put them in Higgins' hands. "Just pay up some bills on the sly, and don't you tell her on your life. I don't want her to be worried." Explaining with sensitive understanding: "It's all right, Mrs. Higgins; I'm from her town, you know." And the woman who admired him and understood him, and whose life had made her keen to read things as they were, said earnestly:

"I quite understand how it is, sir. It is just as though it came straight from home. She overdraws her salary months ahead."

"Have you been with Miss Lane long?"

"Ever since she toured in Europe, and nobody could serve her without being very fond of her indeed."

Dan put out his big warm hand eagerly. "You're a corker," Mrs. Higgins."

"I could walk around the world for her, sir."

"Go ahead and do it then," he smiled, "and I'll pay for all the boot leather you wear out!"

As he went down stairs, already too late to keep an engagement made with his fiancee, he stopped in the writing room to scribble off a note of excuse to the duchess. At the opposite table Dan saw Prince Poniotowsky, writing, as well. The Hungarian did not see Blair, and when he had finished his note he called a page boy and Dan could hear him send his letter up to Miss Lane's suite. The young Westerner thought with confident exaltation. "Well, he'll get left all right, and I'm darned if I don't sit here and see him turned down!"

Dan sat on until the page returned and gave Poniotowsky a verbal message.

"Will you please come upstairs, sir?"

And Blair saw the Hungarian rise, adjust his eyeglass, and walk toward the lift.

What to Wear

The Season's Novelties as Shown in St. Louis Shops.

LONG coats in the new rating fabrics are finding great favor. Their extreme lightness of weight and warmth strongly recommend them, but they are also beautiful. They are being displayed in the various prevailing shades at $25.

Velveteen suits trimmed with fur bands, facings and collars are being shown as advance styles. These suits promise to be very popular this fall and winter. One in black has a band of skunk at lower edge of skirt. The jacket, too, is edged with a band of the fur, as are also the sleeves. The collar facing, of course, is of fur. Another favorite fur for black velvet or velveteen is the Australia blue opossum.

All well dressed women wear waists to match their tailor-made suits. The sheer fabrics continue in vogue for this purpose and chiffon, marquisette, net or voile are the favorite materials.

The hobble skirt garter is a one-piece affair, consisting of a piece of elastic about nine inches in length, at both ends of which the usual round garters are attached. The elastic is covered with pretty shirred ribbon in dainty floral designs, and a bow of the ribbon adorns each side of the garter. They sell at $1.50.

The new garments for misses' wear show that the manufacturers are waking up to the fact that young girls have not the developed figures of their elders. They have, therefore, designed the new garments for the miss instead of the "small women," as has so frequently been the case.

Some of the recently imported gowns show the pretty fichu effect and, no doubt, will increase the popularity of this quaint bit of neckwear that has been creeping into favor during the summer.

Band trimmings are in great demand for hats. One in chenille is in a pretty scroll design, and would be most effective upon a velvet or beaver cloth toque. It can be had in all the fashionable shades at $3.98 per yard.

Belts have lost none of their popularity. The leather still leads in favor and new designs are constantly appearing. One in black leather has narrow openings through which a narrow strip of red leather is drawn. It is $2.50 and decidedly pretty.

Cloth evening capes, unlined, are pretttily trimmed in contrasting shades and tiny gold buttons. They are in stylish design and can be had in both light and dark shades for $4.95. Silk crepe de chine has a Persian border along each side, and while suitable for scarfs, will also make an attractive waist, a pretty model of which is displayed for the benefit of the customer. The material is 18 inches wide and sells at 65 cents.

WINSTON CHURCHILL WIRES OF REFORMS IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Tells Post-Dispatch First Direct Primary Result Downs the Bosses

WINSTON CHURCHILL.

WINSTON CHURCHILL, the St. Louis novelist, has for years been fighting against the control of New Hampshire politics by the Boston & Maine Railroad and other corporate interests. In 1906 he was defeated in the race for the Republican nomination for governor. His novel "Coniston" appeared at that time exposing the corrupt condition of New Hampshire politics.

Since his defeat, Mr. Churchill has fought hard for the new direct primary law under which, on Tuesday, the progressive, or insurgent candidate, Robert P. Bass, was nominated by a vote of more than two to one over the regular or machine candidate, Bertram Ellis.

Mr. Churchill has telegraphed to the Post-Dispatch his analysis of that election, the first direct-primary election ever held in New England.

By Telegrah to the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WINDSOR, Vt., Sept. 8.—The vote in New Hampshire Tuesday seems to me to be a proof of the fact that the reason why the bosses do not wish the direct primary is because they cannot do business under it.

Ever since my campaign of 1906 I have felt that if we could only obtain a direct expression of the people they would not hesitate to declare in favor of popular leadership and repudiate overwhelmingly, as they have done, corporation bossism. The issue was clear-cut, and the objections raised by the machine politicians against the direct primary prove to have been captious.

It was claimed that there would be lack of interest. It was a miserable, rainy day on which to inaugurate the law, and yet the voters in Sullivan County drove miles through the rain and mud to vote for Bass. People who object to the direct primary because they claim it necessitates two contests must have the same objection to the old convention system. If there is a corporation machine to fight, there will be a bitter contest under any system and the same thing is true of expenses. As a matter of fact, Bass' expenses under the direct primary were not as great as those of my campaign, disbursed through the secretary of the Lincoln Club, and that was under the convention system.

The people appeared readily to understand the ballot and the issue and to be glad to take advantage of the opportunity to down the bosses. Under the old system, when delegates were elected in open caucus, intimidation played a great part. The silent vote through the secret ballot was a tremendous factor in our success. For three successive campaigns since 1906, when we started out with 13 men, we have undergone villification, ridicule and abuse.

But this has not deterred us from continuing the fight through these years of defeat, from holding to the faith that "might makes right." We are vindicated by a popular vote, and the chief credit is due to the men who in every community volunteered their services, sacrificed themselves and were not shaken by defeat. We have fought to make the Republican party in New Hampshire a clean party, free from domination, a constructive, honest party which the young men of the State are hastening to join.

This year, as in 1906, we shall have no convention to bring discredit upon the party and the State, no convention where delegates are bought and sold, where there are more votes cast than there are men in the hall.

Mr. Bass has been nominated fairly and squarely, by the people themselves.

WINSTON CHURCHILL.

NO VACATION FOR MEN WHO CUT UP TEXAS RANCHES

Construction of Railroads Opens Vast Country to the Homeseekers.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 8.—The activity in farm and ranch properties in Southern and Western Texas is unprecedentedly heavy. It was expected by land dealers and real estate men that there would be a period of midsummer dullness, but so brisk has been the demand for these properties that the men who made a business of handling transactions of this character have been forced to forego the pleasure of their usual vacations.

The opening up of broad scopes of rich territory by the construction of railroads gives the homeseekers an opportunity to buy virgin land at low prices. One ranch after another is melting away before this tide of new settlers. Towns and agricultural colonies are being established all through the former ranch region. This is particularly true of the Gulf Coast territory.

The railroads are preparing to handle an enormous homeseekers' traffic into Texas this coming fall and winter. It is stated that many special train loads of prospective settlers have already been made up, and the dates booked for their movement.

The remarkable agricultural activity that is taking place in the region south of San Antonio and in nearly every part of the western half of the State is having a beneficial effect upon all lines of business. The building trades are especially busy and prosperous. Scores of new stores and industrial plants have been established all over the former ranch region. More retail lumber yards have been established in Southern and Western Texas during the last 12 months than in any territory of corresponding size in the United States during the same period of time, it is claimed by lumber manufacturers and wholesale dealers.

A Striking Comparison

¶ The New York Central Lines have $85,000 invested for every mile of railroad in their system.

¶ Gross earnings are about $51.00 per day for each mile—net earnings less than $13.00 per day per mile.

¶ Riding on electric-lighted, steam-heated Pullman trains via the New York Central Lines, with barber, valet, stenographer, dining car and an adequate corps of servants—all the comforts of the home or club, and all the conveniences of the office—costs you from 2c to 3c per mile.

¶ Riding in a Taxicab over the New York or Chicago streets costs about 60c per mile.

¶ The New York Central Lines pay out annually $8,000 per mile in wages, $6,000 per mile for supplies, besides millions in State, City and County taxes.

¶ In using such a striking comparison no reflection on other business activities is intended.

¶ But should the public deny a fair profit to a business merely because it presents big figures in its totals? Is not the investor entitled to a fair return on the money he uses to create and maintain these great public utilities?

EARLE WOULD WANDER BACK TO HIS FIRST WIFE AGAIN

"Done With Affinities," Says Friend Telling of the Artist's Regeneration.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, who parted with Miss Julia Kuttner some time ago and attempted to make up with his wife, who was Emily Fischbacker, is on his way to Europe. Alexander Harvey, associate editor of Current Literature, who knows Earle well, said last night he didn't know whether Earle had gone to Paris to try to get his wife to live with him again.

"I do know," said Mr. Harvey, "that Earle has done with all affinity ideas. He told me some time ago that he wanted to make up with his wife. I don't know that he has a definite hope in that direction. His wife's family was strongly opposed to a reconciliation.

"Earle was influenced by the radicals in literature," added Mr. Harvey. "George Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells moved the artistic temperament that previously had been influenced by Shelley and Keats and he decided to banish conventionalism. I strove to dissuade him from his polygamous notions and I think that I succeeded. He is tired of publicity and wishes to settle down."

MISS ELKINS IS BEING SOLD, SOCIALIST PAPER ACCUSES

"Just Like a Pot of Shoe Polish," Is Comment of Berlin Editor.

Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—Vorwarts, the Socialist organ, believes plainly, that a marriage has been arranged between Miss Elkins and the Duke of Abruzzi. It attacks those whom it calls "the parties to the hawking of the girl," and says:

"For the past week the girl's commissioners have been bargaining with as much zeal as if the object of the deal had been not marriage, but a pot of shoe polish or something similar.

"The negotiations were interrupted by Senator Elkins' sudden ultra-democratic insistence that his daughter be treated as a princess.

"If the Elkins millions prove after all to be no sufficient argument to induce the Italians to meet this shameless plebeian's demands, we shall presently read how ideally happy the young couple are until one day the Duchess of the Abruzzi elects to return to her father's home."

Newspapers here publish an interview with Senator Elkins, saying he is at Carlsbad.

M'KINLEY HIGH PRINCIPAL BANS FOOTBALL GAME

Prof. Morrison Says School Will Not Be Member of Scholastic League.

OTHERS ARE DOUBTFUL

Yeatman and Soldan May Also Withdraw From Local Athletic Body.

Due to the recommendation of the Board of Education advising against permitting high school students to play college football, Principal G. R. Morrison of the McKinley High School today announced that he had decided the institution of which he is president shall not be represented in the Interscholastic League by a football team this fall. He expects to make the announcement officially next week.

As Manual Training School has also withdrawn, from the Interscholastic League, and as the other high schools have the matter of abolishing football still under advisement, the future of the strongest schoolboy athletic organization in the State is in doubt.

At the other high schools the question to "play or not to play," will be decided at coming meetings. Central High is decidedly in favor of football and Principal Chester B. Curtis has said that he will approve playing the game providing betting on the contests is stopped. A meeting Friday of the students will be addressed by Principal Curtis in which football will be permitted if gambling is eliminated.

Other Schools In Doubt.

At Yeatman and Soldan High the prospect of football is dim, but not dead. Principal Butler of Yeatman, who is known to be strongly in favor of football, stated that he would not decide until Monday whether Yeatman would be permitted to play league football.

"We sometimes have to do things we do not like to," he said, "and it is possible we may be compelled to abandon championship games."

Principal Powell of Soldan stated that he had reached no decision in the matter and would not decide until he had consulted the students and the faculty members of the athletic board.

Mass meetings will be held at all the schools by the students, at which the principals will speak on this topic.

The situation is the result of activity of Supt. Ben Blewett, who conducted an investigation as to the advisability of continuing the game. After getting the opinions of many authorities on the game and considering the extent of the injuries caused by the sport last year, the Board of Education recommended, but did not make mandatory, the abolishment of all football games except those played by teams from the same school.

Professors Saw Betting.

The betting angle at Central was a sidelight that was brought up as the result of Thanksgiving day wagers which were made when one of the high school professors happened to be looking on. Inquiry developed that too much of the speculatory angle of football had developed. If the students will drop this, Principal Curtis says, football will not be banned there.

The dropping of Manual and McKinley from the league would leave but five teams in the organization, provided Yeatman and Soldan remain. Manual has not been an important factor in the league races in the past, but McKinley was Central's most important rival for first place honors, and the absence of a representation from that school will be felt.

Kelton White, the Smith Academy graduate member of the Executive Board of the Interscholastic League, says in regard to the football outlook:

"The board has not had a chance to get together yet this season, and probably will not until Oct. 1, so I cannot say what they will do with regard to the present apparent smash-up in the league. I do not think, however, that the league will be dissolved simply because some of the schools cannot play. It may be that they will abandon football for a year until the men back of this agitation can see the foolishness of their ways.

"As for Smith Academy, they will have a team and play all the football that can be crowded into the season."

KULAGE WANTS GENE DALE TO OPPOSE LOGAN SQUARES

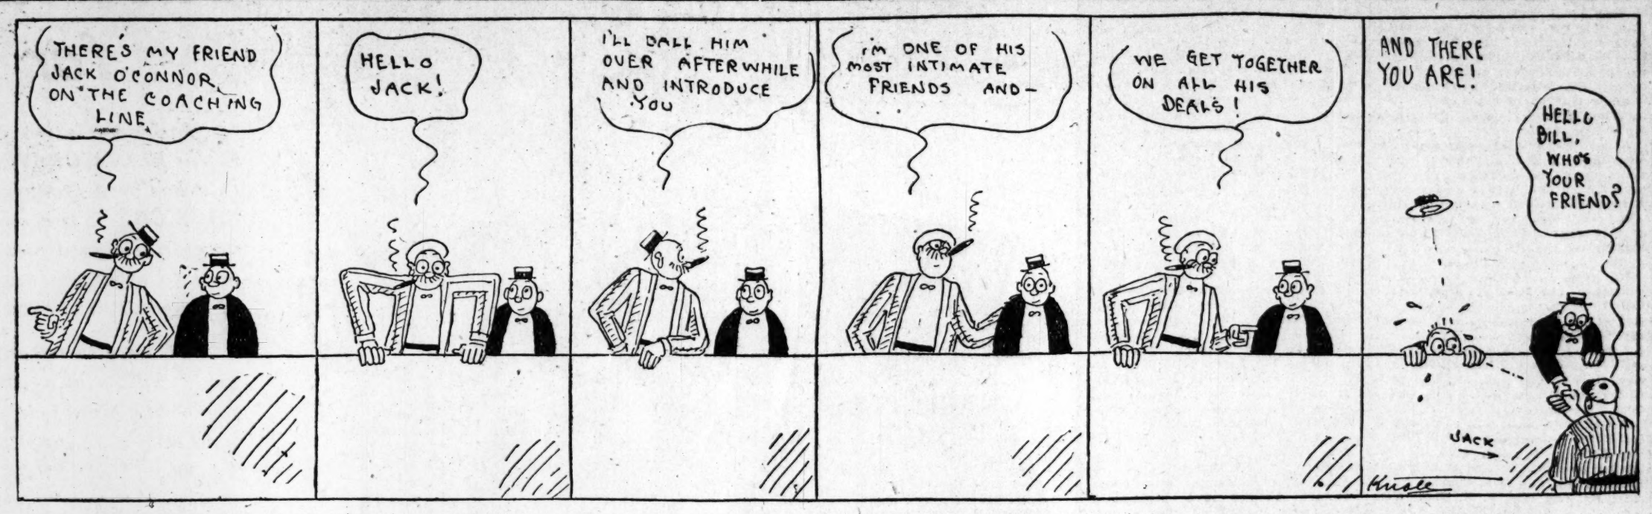
Eugene Dale, the St. Louis boy, whose pitching helped the Dallas team to the Texas League pennant, is being sought by Manager Kulage to pitch one of the games for the Hyde Parks against the Logan Squares, of the Chicago City League. Jimmy Callahan's team plays one game at Kulage's Park Saturday and two Sunday. Dale is a graduate of the Trolley League, and although he served his first year in the Texas League, was one of the Dallas club's leading pitchers.

Among the former big leaguers who will lineup with the Logan Squares are Callahan, Danny Green, "Dutch" Meyer, a former St. Louis boy, with the Pittsburg Pirates several years ago, and "Chick" Fraser, the former Cub pitcher.

The National League magnates are going to make a fight against the present umpiring staff which President Lynch has on his payroll, but where are they going to get any "last ones?"

AND THERE YOU ARE!

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch by JEAN KNOTT



GOOD CATCHER BADLY WANTED BY J. O'CONNOR

Should Crisp or Krichell Prove Winners, Browns' Boss Will Be Pleased.

Manager Jack O'Connor is pleased with the new talent with which he will be forced to build the 1911 Browns, but he is most eager to learn of what stuff his new catchers are made. He believes that several promising infielders as well as hard-hitting outfielders and a big string of pitchers have been lined up for him, but he hopes above all things that Crisp of Newark or Krichell of Montreal delivers the goods.

"If either Crisp or Krichell show well a big bit of my worrying will be over," said O'Connor to the Post-Dispatch. "The brainy catcher counts more than you realize in the construction of a ball club.

"Crisp worked two innings for me in Cleveland, when his leg gave way under him. It was a peculiar mishap. He worked splendidly in the two periods during which he was behind the bat, and his leg didn't bother him until he started walking to the bench. Then it gave way. At first I thought it was an old injury, but later learned different. I sent him to Kansas City to have a specialist treat him."

More Recruits Arrive.

Three new Brownies joined the Browns Wednesday and more are due today. The result is that the team will hardly resemble the old Browns. O'Connor plans a big change in his line-up for Thursday's double-header with the White Sox of Chicago.

Pitcher "Red" Nelson of the Akron (Ohio and Pennsylvania League) team, Infielder "Red" Corriden of the Omaha (Western League) team, and Infielder Graham of the Jackson (Cotton States League) team, got in Wednesday. Pitchers Malloy, and Mitchell and Outfielder Northen, all of the Houston (Texas League) club, are due Thursday. So is George, of Indianapolis.

Corridon and Northen will be in today's games. O'Connor will send Corridon to shortstop while Hartzell will go to right field, replacing Griggs. Northen will supplant Hoffman in center while McDonald, who made a pleasing debut Tuesday, will continue at third base. Graham will be given an early trial.

Most of the young pitchers who have reported to O'Connor worked just before leaving to join the Browns. For that reason it will be a few days before Nelson, Malloy, Mitchell and George make their debut.

Joe Lake, the man who saved the Browns from utter ruin this year, will probably be one of the pitchers in Thursday's double-header. Lake recently has complained of arm trouble. While the team was in the East Manager O'Connor permited him to go to his home for a short rest. He rejoined the club in Cleveland last Saturday and reported himself fit again. The Naps, though, found him easy. Lake has worked hard for the Browns all season and now that the youngsters are beginning to report O'Connor should let him rest until next spring.

COACH HOLLENBACH MUST HURRY TO "PREP" TIGERS

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 8.—The late opening of the school year at the University of Missouri this season will unfavorably affect the chances of the Tigers for annexing another Missouri Valley championship. Registration begins Sept. 20 and the Tigers play Monmouth College Sept. 30. This will give Coach Hollenbach only one week in which to turn out a team to beat a school which last year's Tigers were able to defeat only 12 to 6.

While it is not expected that either Monmouth or Rolla, the first foes met, will be able to defeat the Tigers, the team will have to be developed rapidly to beat Iowa University Oct. 15.

There is little doubt that the officials of the Chicago and St. Louis clubs can be induced to move up those final games of the season if the national commission wants.

WRAY'S COLUMN

FROM all advance accounts that new football "zone" is apt to prove a torrid one.

Extracts from yesterday's American Association box scores: Williams (ex-Brownie) at bat four time, hits 3; Murray (coming Brownie) at bat five times, hits, one. Comment is odious.

The Walter Johnsons are still enjoying that upward tendency. McAleer and Walter were only 14½ games behind Detroit Thursday morning, and with only 25 more games to play, fans of the Capitol City are still hopeful of overtaking the Tigers. Reminds one of Cyrano de Bergerac, the gentleman who was always most hopeful when the chances were 100 to 1 against him.

If Jeffries only had the footwork owned by the National Commission Jack Johnson would not have been able to make such a shine of the "hope of the white race," at Reno. How's this for an exposition of the art of sidestepping:

Player R. Yates, formerly of the Cardinals, appealed to the commission to know if he is to lose the difference in salary between what his St. Louis contract called for and what Dallas paid him, when Robison ordered him to report to Dallas by mistake. The commission's ruling:

> The commission has investigated this matter and finds that the player was given his unconditional release on June 1. The fact was officially published and the player is, therefore, a free agent.

What is he, a free agent, to do: Sit down and let Dallas get away with it? Sandbag Robison for it? Charge it up to profit and loss?

Owgoost, these adjudications of differences are not always clear. You should not be so frequent at the Laughery Club.

That "War," in a Nutshell.

HERE we have the gist of this baseball "war."

"I have," said Mr. J. A. Fletcher, who was acting in the interest of the Cincinnati promoters and a motion picture show in arranging that all-star baseball tour, "lost $2000 through the ruling of the National Commission which prevents the players from joining the venture."

Possibly it may be this $2000 loss which has sharpened the vision of Mr. Fletcher until he is able to see the vicissitudes the poor $4000-a-year baseball player is compelled to endure; and to discern a $3,000,000 outlaw league "abornin' " on the horizon.

Come out of it, Mr. Fletcher. The commission has no authority to refund you your $2000 promoting losses. Pay the fiddler, like a sportsman, when your coup fails, and let organized baseball alone.

A cousin of King George, who recently witnessed a big league baseball game, said he thought that cricket had something on baseball. The only angle in which cricket seems to have the edge is that it is a much more severe test of endurance—for the spectator.

Under the old football rules one of the great faults was the halts to gain time while some player regained his wind. This year they'll have to take time out to allow the official to recover.

Too bad, since Ty Cobb had to get that trouble with his eye, that it didn't occur when his batting average was up around the .380 mark. Then he could afford to remain idle with the reasonable hope that Nemesis Lajoie would not pass him in the race for that auto.

Back to the Elements.

IN a measure the new rules demand a reversion to the very first principles of American college football. In the early days the runner invariably was preceded by his interference—a condition made imperative by the rule forbidding reinforcement of plays by pushing or pulling. The old end run and the mass-on-tackle will be seen in all its ancient glory.

The new plays are dubious—one does not know whether or not they can be worked satisfactorily until they are tried out in games between finished teams of equal strength. But the end run will be there again, more prominently than ever before. But it will take a speed merchant to get away with it.

The individual will have his day this year; and if there are any embryonic Laurie Blisses lying around our local universities this is the season for them to shine.

MORE CHICAGO MEN TO TRY FOR NATIONAL GOLF TITLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—H. Chandler Egan of Exmoor, Albert Seckel of Riverside and D. E. Swayer of Wheaton left yesterday for Boston to compete in the National amateur golf championships. The decision of Sawyer to make the trip was made at the eleventh hour. He has been suffering from eye trouble, and was disguised behind a pair of blue goggles. The former Western champion consulted an oculist before leaving, and was told that he might practice one or two days before the tournament if his eyes do not get any worse.

Robert A. Gardner left early today, and Paul Hunter is expected to follow tonight. Mason Phelps, Western champion, who is now in British Columbia on business, did not send in his entry.

Lindsay Off for Marshall.

Henry Lindsay, former captain and center of the St. Louis University football eleven, departs Thursday for Marshall, Mo., where he takes up his duties as coach of the Missouri Valley College football squad. This is Lindsay's first effort as a football mentor.

Three Double Bills In Row.

Rain caused a postponement of Wednesday's double-header between the Browns and White Sox of Chicago. That means that double-headers will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Rather, six games will be played in three days.

Cavill to Coach I. A. C. Swimmers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Dick Cavill, the Australian, who holds the world's professional swimming records from 40 yards to a mile and the first man to perfect the famous crawl stroke, is expected here the latter part of the month to take up his duties as swimming coach of the Illinois Athletic Club.

TY COBB WILL BE ABLE TO GET IN GAME MONDAY

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 8.—Dr. Robert Gilfmer, terating Ty Cobb for eye trouble, said today: "The trouble with Cobb's eye is a minor matter and he will play again Monday. His right eye is inflamed and the treatment required destroys team work between the two eyes. If he were in an ordinary pursuit he would be working today. There is no cause for worry over possible loss or even permanent impairing of sight."

GOLDEN PITCHES WELL FOR ROGER

His Work Is Only Redeeming Feature of Cardinals' Double Loss.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 8.—The Cardinals play another game with the Pirates here today and then hit out for the East. The contest has been advanced from the final trip of the Cardinals here.

The only consolation Manager Bresnahan had in the double defeat of his team by the Pirates yesterday was the good showing made by Roy Golden, the pitcher he obtained from the Newcastle (Ohio and Pennsylvania League) team. Golden relieved Frank Corridon in the second game and blanked the Pirates in the five innings he worked. His work not only impressed Bresnahan, but also Manager Fred Clarke of the Pirates.

The first game went to the world's champions, 11—6, Johnny Lush being hit hard, while Zmich was found for two tallies. Adams opposed them and allowed nine hits.

Old Pop Leever was on the mound in the second game and blanked the St. Louisans for eight innings. Wi... the game well in hand, he let down in the ninth and the Cardinals scored three runs.

"Flying Tackle Not Dead Yet," Says Coach Bender

St. Louis U.'s Football Mentor Returns to Take Charge of First Practice Under New Rules, Sept. 10.

Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. the first gun of the 'varsity football season in St. Louis will be fired. The gunner will be the human torpedo, John R. Bender, coach of the St. Louis University football squad, who rrived in the city at 5 p. m. Friday afternoon and at once reported to the university authorities.

Saturday will be the earliest possible moment at which practice can be begun. The following players are expected to report to Bender at the new campus, King's highway and Manchester avenue on that day: Moran, guard; Painter, halfback; Erhardt, end; Wessling, center; Dockery, quarterback; Carroll, quarterback; Snyder, end; Dean, quarterback; Higley, guard; McCarthy, tackle, and probably Capt. Wagner.

September 24 St. Louis U. is scheduled to play a game with Shurtleff College of Alton and Bender has all too little time to get his men into any sort of shape for contest by that time.

Bender will have virtually the same material to work with that Coach Warner had last season, minus four regulars who have graduated, including big "Heine" Lindsay, last year's captain.

Bender will get no benefit from any new men who appear with this season's freshman class, as the institution has announced its intention of observing the Missouri Valley Conference eligibility rules.

Policy Depends on Men.

"It's too early to tell you what policy I'm going to follow this year," said Bender. "I don't know yet. And I probably wouldn't tell you if I did. The character of the men I have at my disposal will affect the scheme of play of the eleven.

"I do not think the depths of the new game will be sounded fully until 1912, and therefore I would be merely guessing if I said anything positive about them. I'm willing to make a guess for you, however.

"I look for much of the old-time football to be effective—line plunges, tackle plays and end runs. Why? Well, the great variety of play and the continued chance of a forward pass being started from a regular formation will prevent the defense from concentrating. Line plays can thus be sent through the weakened front of the enemy. End plays will require extreme speed, but once past the line of scrimmage, the restrictions on defense will help.

"I look for the short onside kicks and the long forward pass to be reversed; that is, long onside kicks and short, fast passes will be the order. Of course, the rule regarding the 20-yard zone makes this necessary.

Chance for Lesser Schools.

"And one thing—the lesser colleges will have all the edge this year. Under the rules they can take out an overworked star, rest him for one period and send him back again. Another thing—the tremendous beef that has counted so heavily in the past will be of little help unless accompanied by speed. The varied play and importance of individual work will all help the little fellows.

"A greater variety of play, wherein the ball is always in view of the spectator, will improve the game from the onlooker's viewpoint.

"In view of the restrictions on defense, it is probable that there will be plenty of scoring after teams have settled down and learned their new plays well.

"The quarterback is now a regular backfield man, and his requirements will be those of a half or full back, probably the latter, to relieve the plunger of some of the hard work.

"And don't think the 'flying tackle' is all through. The rules provide a five-yard penalty against it. But if it is needed to stop what seems a score, coaches will tell their men to get the runner and take the penalty.

"My deepest sympathies rest with the official this year. He will have to be something superhuman to get away with the job."

What Bender Thinks Will Happen Under New Football Rules

Speed, not beef, will count most.

Lesser elevens will have better chance.

Open play more varied and a better game for spectators will result.

Flying tackle will exist, despite prohibition.

Defense will be the coach's hardest problem.

Short onside kick and long forward pass will be "dead ones."

End runs and line plunges will still be effective.

Quarterback's duties will be entirely altered.

Officials will have entirely too much to do.

KEOGH PASSES HUESTON; PICKED TO HOLD TITLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Jerome Keogh of Rochester showed decided improvement in the second block of his championship pool match with Tom Hueston of St. Louis, and is now favored to retain the title. Keogh played good pool and won the block, 239 to 115. Keogh now has the advantage, 405—329, in the two-nights' play. They play the final block tonight.

CAYOU'S ELEVEN TO LOSE THREE STAR RECRUITS

Lincoln, Short and Weinbrenner Not Expected to Play With Washington U.

Francis Cayou, Washington University's football coach, is worrying over the outlook for the Missouri Valley conference championship race this year, as a result of two facts. The first is that several of his good men, whom he will not name, are facing ineligibility through scholastic "conditions," which must be passed before the men can take part in university sports. The second, and more grievous one, is the loss of three men who, as freshmen last year, promised great things for the team this season. They are Jim Lincoln, one of the best all round interscholastic men turned out in St. Louis; Short, a brother of Harold Short, the famous Princeton center rush and guard; and Weinbrenner, another husky lad who had been doing great work against the regulars, last year.

These three men Cayou had fully expected to make the regular team and on account of their weight and experience they were counted on to materially strengthen the aggregation.

Will Get a Late Start.

Cayou does not count on getting any effective work from his squad until late in September. The various departments open late, and the restrictions on the medics are such as to make it possible that Howe, Hagan and Schnell, a big, experienced trio of last year, may not be able to get out to practice save at rare intervals. Howe's loss will be especially felt if he is unable to play, as he showed himself to be a bulldog last season.

The eleven is assured a good backfield if "conditions" do not wipe it out. The pick of this will be Nipher, Doerr and Wilson. Wilson played one season for St. Louis U. and was the best back Cochems had that year. He was ineligible at Washington last season, under the one-year rule, but will be able to compete this season. This back is probably the most reliable one on the team, notwithstanding the fine showing made by Bother Doerr and Nipher last season.

Among others who will be certain of places on their return are the veterans Harding (captain), Nelson, Lane and Bryan.

Even without the last year freshmen mentioned as not intending to return, Cayou will have the following excellent players from the 1913 class: Morrell, Herring, Van Riper, McCarthy and Fensky—the last named a most promising young player.

S.S.S. CURES MALARIA

Malaria is a species of blood poverty known as Anaemia; it is a condition in which the circulation is so weak and impure that it is unable to supply the system with sufficient nourishment and strength to preserve ordinary health.

The real source of malarial infection is a question about which medical authorities differ. Some take the position that it is an atmospheric poison, the germs of which are breathed into the lungs and thus transmitted to the circulation. Others advance the theory that persons become inoculated with the poison through the bites of mosquitos. While the profession differ about the actual method of malarial infection, they all agree that Malaria is a BLOOD DISEASE, and any treatment to successfully overcome its effects must PURIFY THE BLOOD.

When the germs of Malaria get into the circulation, the nutritive properties of the blood are weakened, the rich, red corpuscles being gradually destroyed by the malarial poison. Then the symptoms of the disease begin to be manifest. In the first stages of Malaria the complexion becomes pale and sallow, the appetite is affected, the system grows bilious, and there is a general feeling of lassitude and weakness. Malaria is an insidious poison and it gradually attacks other portions of the system, and if the germs are allowed to remain in the blood, they sometimes give rise to serious diseases and disorders. As the circulation becomes more thoroughly saturated with the malarial infection, the digestion is deranged, chills and fever come and go, skin diseases, boils, sores and ulcers, etc. break out on the body, and after awhile the entire health becomes impaired.

Malaria can only be cured by removing the germs from the blood. Purging the liver and bowels with strong, nauseating cathartics can never reach the real seat of the trouble, because such things do not affect the circulation. S.S.S. searches out and destroys every particle of malarial infection and builds up the blood to a healthy, nourishing condition. Then the system receives its required amount of nutriment, the bright red corpuscles begin to multiply in the circulation, sallow complexions grow ruddy and healthful, the liver and digestion are righted, the appetite improved, and the system vitalized and refreshed in every way. S. S. S. is a safe and pleasant remedy as well as an efficient one. Write for free book on the blood and any medical advice desired, no charge for either.

POISONED BY THE GERMS OF MALARIA.

I began using your S. S. S. probably ten years ago for Malaria and blood troubles, and it proved so good at that time that I have continued ever since using it as a family remedy. Recently one of my children was troubled with large, painful boils on the back of his neck; after suffering with these for several months, we tried S. S. S., and am glad to state that a few bottles cured him entirely. It is a pleasure for me to recommend S. S. S. for the benefit of others who are needing a first rate blood purifier, tonic and sure cure for Malaria. C. C. HEMINGWAY, Arkansas City, Ark.

NO RELIEF UNTIL S. S. S. WAS TAKEN.

I had a horrible attack of boils that broke out all over my body, from Malaria, and from which I could get no possible relief until I began taking your medicine, and from my experience I can safely say that S. S. S. is the best blood purifier in the world. MRS. M. P. SMYTHERS, Wytheville, Va.

WALL STREET STOCKS SHOW STEADY RANGE

London Sends Improved Level of Prices—Reading Shows Strength.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8, noon.

Stocks declined slightly during the forenoon. Union Pacific, which rose from 164¾ to 165½, receded to 164⅝. Reading, Steel and other leading issues showed fractional losses.

The stock market opened steady and fractionally higher today following the rise of yesterday. The demand from outside sources was slightly improved. Reading was a strong feature.

London sent over a slightly higher range of values on Americans influenced largely by the action of the market Wednesday in the face of the Vermont election.

The failure of liquidation to develop on bad news recently has had a reassuring effect on foreign markets which are apparently looking on American securities with more favor.

While politics is still the dominating factor in the market situation, the action of prices of Thursday would seem to indicate that even this had been discounted in the recent prolonged decline.

Money market conditions reflect a slight improvement over last week, the movement of funds through the Treasury since the compilation of the last bank statement being less than $2,000,000, against $6,400,000 for the same period last week.

DETAILED REPORT OF THE DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Stocks showed evidence of support on the opening dealings today in face of a break in American Hide and Leather preferred of 2%. Reading rose 1 and Union Pacific and American Smelting 5. Southern Pacific common opened down ¾ and recovered immediately. New York Air Brake lost 2¾. The dealings were on a very small scale.

Traders operated on the long side of stocks with the presumption of a favorable Government crop report. The advance was interrupted when the copper producers' report appeared, the heavy production for the month of August being unfavorably regarded in spite of the large deliveries. Reactions from the best ran to a point in some of the market leaders a fair price lower than last night. Western Union rose 1¼. International Paper preferred fell 1. Bonds were steady.

The drop in American Hide and Leather preferred was extended to 5¾, the price touching 19, the lowest of the year. The market otherwise was firm and irregular and eased off somewhat at 11 o'clock. New York Central and Mackay companies gained 1; Pacific Coal, 1¼, and American Sugar 1½. Pressed Steel Car fell 1.

Speculation was featureless in the latter part of the day. Northern Pacific preferred moved up a point. International Paper preferred broke 2¾.

NEW YORK MONEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Money on call easy, 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate 1¾; closing bid 1; offered at 2 per cent. Time loans somewhat easier; 60 days 3¾@4 per cent; 90 days 4@4¼ per cent; six months 4¾ per cent. Close—Prime mercantile paper 5½ to 6 per cent. Sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8325@4.8350 for 60-day bills and 4.8610 for demand. Commercial bills 482¾@4.83¾. Bar silver 52¼c. Mexican dollars 44c.

JANE ADDAMS CONVERTS FROHMAN TO SUNDAY PLAY

Manager Who Closes Theaters on Day of Rest Proposes Uplift Drama for It.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Charles Frohman declared that he would endeavor to secure a modification of the State law prohibiting dramatic productions on Sunday, so as to allow a special Sunday drama. Heretofore Mr. Frohman has been the chief opponent of Sunday theaters, but he says that in common with a number of prominent social workers, particularly Jane Addams of Hull House, he feels the church is not successfully coping with moral and ethical problems, but that people are willing to be preached at if they can be amused.

Mr. Frohman proposes to ask for the passage of a law allowing the presentation of plays on Sunday that have a sound moral lesson; that these plays be chosen by an appointed committee of citizens in each community. He has canceled all Sunday engagements of "The Dollar Princess" in Chicago.

"I prefer sacrificing the Sunday profits to giving musical comedies or farces or other plays that only amuse," he said. "I have always considered it a day of rest both for the public and the actors, and a day which the churches should have to themselves. But recently I have been having conferences with several of the leading philanthropists in the city, and they impressed upon me the growing inability of the churches to reach precisely those people who have the most need of their influence. It is my object to offer a special Sunday drama, plays that expose the shame and injustices of contemporary social and political life."

EAST SIDERS TO HEAR REPORT ON COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Promoters Plan to Put Question Before the Voters at November Election.

The commission form of government, which was indorsed for East St. Louis by the Commercial Club at its July meeting, will be the principle topic for discussion at the September meeting of the club, to be held at Allen's Park Thursday evening. A chicken dinner will precede the business meeting.

William Ad Moody, chairman of a committee of 25 appointed by Robert E. Conway, president of the club, to take charge of circulating petitions among the people to test their sentiments in the matter, will make the principal report. If 25 per cent of the people sign the petitions as favoring the plan the adoption of the system will be submitted in the November election.

Old Time Sports Revived.

DENTON, Tex., Sept. 8.—Programs of fete days before the war will be duplicated for the October Trades days here, Oct. 7 and 8. No games not known in the old days will be permitted and a feature will be a riding tournament such as was popular in the '50s.

AMERICAN STOCKS IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 8.—American securities were quiet and featureless during the forenoon. Prices ranged from ¼ above to ⅛ below yesterday's New York closing. Wall street support hardened values in the afternoon and the market closed steady, a fraction below the best.

UNITED RAILWAYS STOCK TAKES BIG DECLINE IN PRICE

More Than 400 Shares Change Hands, Close Being $59.75.

MORE IS OFFERED

Lowest Price Is Paid for These Securities Since October, 1907.

Liquidation in United Railways preferred was continued on the Local Stock Exchange Thursday. More than 400 shares changed hands, the decline ranging from $60.25 a share to $59.75. At the close more was offered at $59.50. The best bid was $58.50 a share.

The stock opened at $60.25, a decline of 50 cents from Wednesday's closing quotation. One hundred and ten shares were sold at this price. Then followed a sharp downturn, 275 shares being thrown on the market at $60, the lowest price at which this issue has sold since October, 1907. Near the close 25 shares were taken at $59.75.

The common stock was offered at $12 and the bonds at 79¾.

There was no explanation of the selling. At its present price United Railways yields about 9 per cent, the dividend being at the rate of 5 per cent a year.

Rumors have been current in the financial district that the dividend is to be cut. In well-informed quarters, however, the opinion is expressed that the liquidation probably is a reflection of the weakness recently prevailing in the Wall street market.

Officials of the company say the United Railway earnings have been well maintained, but point to large increases in operating expenses.

Of the $25,000,000 issue of common stock practically 75 per cent is owned by the North American Co., of which James Campbell of St. Louis is president. There have been few transactions in the common during the week.

FINANCIAL ITEMS

How little justified was all the prognostication during the last year, that the "Katy" scon would be in a position to pay dividends, is shown by the small margin of earnings this fiscal year for the common stock, which they averaged was 0.28 per cent, and this in a fairly good year. The prospects this year cannot be said to be bright, and the Gould Katy has before it some knotty problems to solve. The rise last year was far from justified.

Canadian Pacific has held fairly well in last week's dull market, probably because of the encouraging report for July which shows a gross increase of $1,729,184, of which, in striking contrast to the tendency of earnings at other roads on this side of the border, $1,004,748 was saved in the net. A great deal of Canadian Pacific stock was marketed well before the dividend was increased, and the market has felt the weight of these holdings, since all the efforts made to boom the stock failed to put it as high as it sold before the dividend icrease.

The dealings in Smelters for the most part last week fell to the lowest total in months. The bulls did not care to put it up and until late in the week there was no counter demonstration from the bears. Smelters around its present price pays twice the dividend and yet sells only a few points above Amalgamated.

Steel did not act well on the last brief rise above 70, and heavy selling came from Pittsburg, where information as to steel conditions is supposed to be of the best. It is sometimes the worst point from which to obtain authentic news. The steel trade is without quotation in the doldrums and earnings at the present time, it is believed, are being kept up on the filling of old orders and the new business is inconsequential.

THE LUCK
OF A "RECKLESS" MAN.

A few years ago there was a man who got just plain drunk. He was the kind that keeps it up as long as the money lasts. He had a few dollars, so in order to deprive himself of the wherewithal to get more, he very "recklessly" bought some lots in a little town in South Texas. He had never been there and knew nothing about it, but the town or country. He held on to the lots—they made him a rich man.

The opportunities today in South Texas are better than ever. Towns are growing into cities. People are doubling their money over night. I have a splendid proposition to offer. Something that will pay you to look into very carefully, and to do so at once.

"I AM AT PEACE," IS MESSAGE FROM JAMES IN SPIRIT WORLD

Boston Business Man Declares Professor Was Reached in a Seance.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 8.—William James, the late Harvard professor and distinguished scientist and psychic expert, has sent a message to his friend from the spirit world, it is asserted today by M. S. Ayer, a Boston business man, who conducted the seance at his country home at Harwichport. This is Prof. James' message:

"I am at peace, at peace"——here some words could not be distinguished—"with myself and all mankind. I have awakened to a life far beyond my highest conception while a denizen of earth. Tell my brothers that I will transmit a message through this instrument that will prove my individuality, when I can manifest more clearly than at this time. I did not realize how difficult it would be to manifest from this plane of life to the moral plane. There is much, very much for me to learn, and many conditions to overcome."

The private seance at the home of Ayer was held at 8 o'clock Monday evening, some of the foremost spiritualists of the world being present. No reference to Prof. James was made by any member of the party before the principal medium went under control.

SWIMS TO SHORE WITH A BURNING LAUNCH IN TOW

Grafton Bank Cashier Saves Craft Once, but Flames Break Out Again.

BOAT IS DESTROYED

Owner Is Driven Overboard by Gasoline Explosion on $1500 Vessel.

The Dixie, $1500 launch of Robert Meysenburg, cashier of the Grafton (Ill.) bank, was burned to the water's edge half way between Chautauqua and Grafton, at 1 a. m. Thursday, after Meysenburg, forced to jump into the river by an explosion of gasoline, had towed the boat to shore with a line around his waist and succeeded once in extinguishing the flames.

Meysenburg was alone in the boat, on his way from Chautauqua to Grafton, at 10 p. m., and had reached a point opposite the Government light near the powder works, when he noticed that the gasoline tank was leaking. He held his lantern to look into the well and pulled the pump handle up so quickly that the gasoline on the surface of the water was dashed over the lantern.

There was an explosion and the flames leaped about him. The boat has two cockpits, and as he was surrounded by the flames, he plunged overboard.

Swimming to the bow, he attempted to climb on board, but another explosion drove him back into the water. He tied the bow line around his waist and swam and waded to shore, a distance of 100 feet, towing the burning boat after him.

By dashing water over the boat with paddles, he extinguished the flames, and after three hours' work he tied up the boat and walked to his home. After he had gone flames broke out again and the boat was destroyed.

The Dixie was 30 feet long and was elegantly furnished and equipped with a 24-horsepower engine. It was in the semi-speed class. The hull was towed to Grafton Thursday and taken out of the water. The engine was found to have been damaged about $250, but it can be repaired. Otherwise, the boat is a loss.

CORONER HOLDS AUTOIST WHO KILLED GIRL, WITHOUT BAIL

Edward T. Rosenheimer's Wife Faints When Verdict Is Announced.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Edward T. Rosenheimer is responsible for the death of Miss Grace Hough, on the night of Aug. 18, 1910, and recommended that he be held for the action of the grand jury on the charge of homicide. Milton Fleischer and Louis Schuman, who were with Rosenheimer in his automobile, were held as accessories after the fact.

Grace Hough, 21 years old, was killed on Pelham road by an automobile driven by Rosenheimer. Her companions, Anna McCabe and George Vedder, were too ill to appear in court. It is feared they will be crippled for life.

Rosenheimer sat unmoved when the verdict was announced.

"In view of the verdict rendered by the jury," said Coroner Schwanneke, "I commit you, Edward T. Rosenheimer, without bail."

"Oh!" cried out a man just outside the railing. Rosenheimer looked around and saw his pretty little wife, falling into the arms of a woman friend. The Coroner then announced he would hold the other two men—Rosenheimer's companions in the auto—in $10,000 bail each.

MOTHER ILL, WANTS HER BOY

Harold Rubin, 16, Supposed to Be in St. Louis.

Mrs. I. Rubin is sick at her home in Des Moines, Io., and wants to see her son, Harold Rubin, 16 years old, who is somewhere in St. Louis. The boy left home last Sunday, saying he would "strike out in the world for himself." His mother became ill the next day, and continually asks to see her son.

Harold had been a clerk in his father's clothing store at Des Moines. He suggested to his father that he is able to make a living for himself and asked permission to leave home. His parents tried to persuade him to remain with them, but he bought a ticket to St. Louis and got on a train bound this way. Harold's father is anxious for his son to write or wire to his mother. If he will return home it will relieve the anxious mother and probably result in her early recovery from her illness, the father says.
